DOCTOR NYE TELLS STORY IMPLICATING "HIGHER UPS"

Alleges Corruption of Solons By Big Business and Politicians.

GIVES NAMES OF GUILTY ONES

Revelations Recited Before Attorney General Hogan and Prosecutor Turner to Be Repeated Before the Grand Jury—Pike County Representative Admits Soliciting Bribe of One Thousand Dollars.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—Dr. George B. Nye, representative from Pike county, appeared before Judge Kinkead unexpectedly and pleaded guilty to an indictment accusing him of having solicited a bribe in connection with the Kimble bill.

The indictment specifies that Dr. Nye, on April 18, 1911, solicited from E. F. Kimble, author of the law to re-district the Pike and Adams county judicial district, the sum of $1,000.

Before appearing in court, Dr. Nye had been in secret conference with Attorney General Hogan and Prosecuting Attorney Turner of this city. It is stated authoritatively he made a full confession regarding corruption in the general assembly, giving the names of the interests and lobbyists who have been tampering with the legislators for years. Here is a summary of the revelations Nye made: Lobbyists and interests who for years have been corrupting legislators named. These include men well known in business and politics.

One lobbyist, who had a specific following of both senators and representatives, with Dr. Nye at their head, given.

Dr. Nye's own income from graft in the legislature totaled $10,000 a year. Statements of Burns detectives fully corroborated.

Names of persons who raised big defense fund for indicted solons told; also those maintaining Diegel family while senate sergeant-at-arms is in prison.

Names of several assemblymen not under indictment who participated in graft made known.

Before Grand Jury.

A grand jury investigation is to be made forthwith. The expose of 1911, it is said, will be no more sensational than that expected now from the grand jury.

Dr. Nye may never be punished if he repeats his confession to the grand jury and appears as witness against those whom he implicated in the confession. Five other indictments against him will be laid away until he has fully complied with his promises in this respect. If he should go back on his confession he may be sent to the penitentiary for five years on his plea of guilty.

The Pike county solon is said to have admitted that his revenue from graft while a member of the legislature amounted to as high as $10,000 a year. He gave the names of those who contributed to these bribes. He corroborated in toto the evidence of graft given by Smiley, Bailey and Barry, Burns detectives, who worked up the first graft exposure in the spring of 1911 and which resulted in the indictment of Dr. Nye and others.

The confession exposes the persons who are keeping Rodney J. Diegel's family while he is serving a three-year term in the penitentiary, and also names those who, Dr. Nye says, put up the big defense fund for indicted solons. This bit of information is said to be welcome to the prosecution.

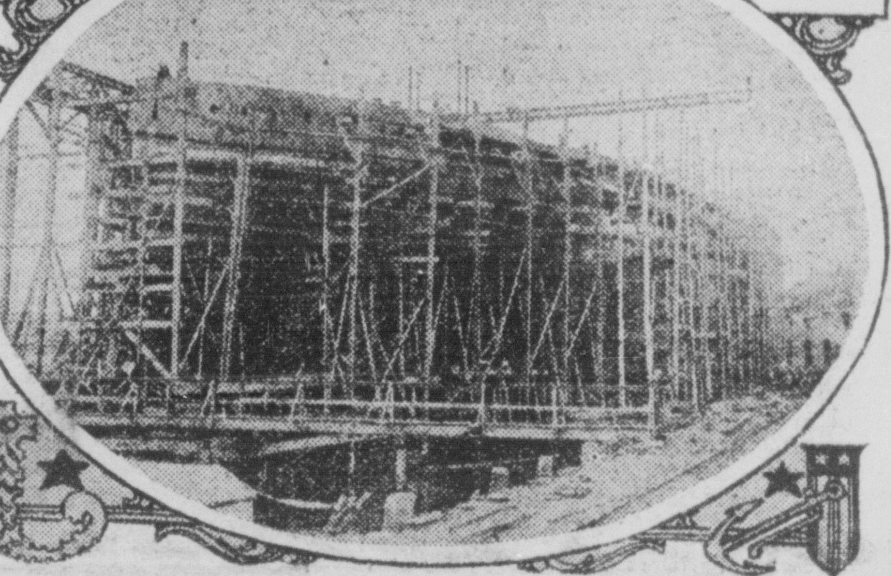

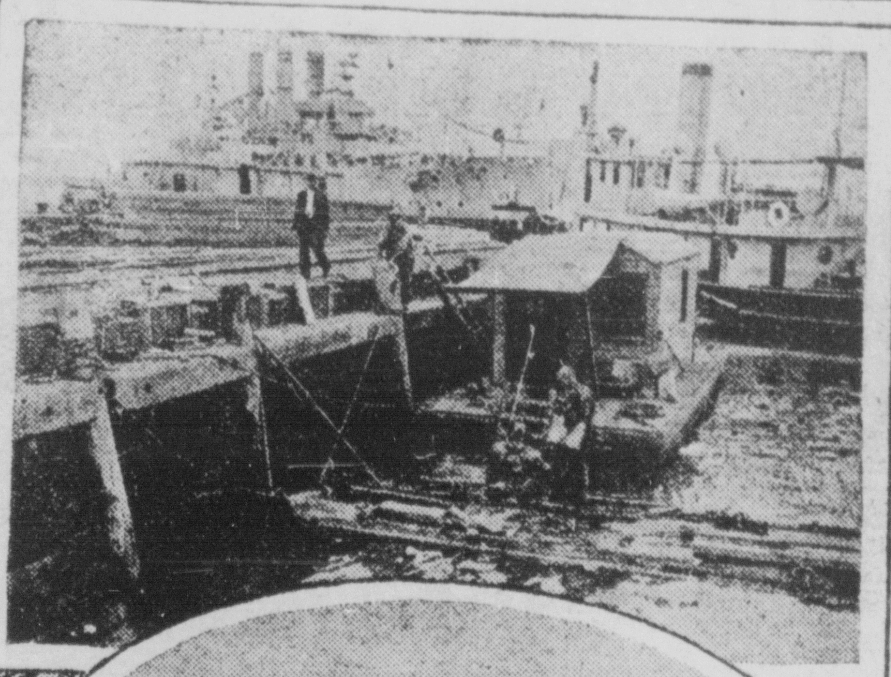

COUNT SUED FOR DEBT

Marries Wealthy Woman but Fails to Pay Bill For $100.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Count Kalman L. Csaky, who married Mrs. Maude Inman six months after she was divorced from Bryan Inman, a wealthy lumberman of Portland, Ore., was sued here by Mrs. A. E. Waller of New York city for $100. Mrs. Waller's attorney says that the money was lent to the count to pay his hotel bill and that he promised to repay it after he was married. "He said that he would have plenty of money after his wedding," the attorney who represents Mrs. Waller said.

THE great battleship New York, sister ship to the Texas, which was begun Sept. 11 last year, will be launched in the last part of October at the Brooklyn navy yard. She will be one of the biggest and best fighting ships in the world, costing $8,500,000 without armament or furnishings. It will take 2,400 men nearly two years more to complete her. The New York will have a length of 573 feet, a breadth of ninety-five feet two inches, a total displacement of 27,000 tons and engines of 28,000 horsepower. Her major armament will consist of ten fourteen-inch guns. She will be one of the first vessels of the navy to be armed with fourteen inch rifles. With a displacement of 5,000 tons more than that of the Florida, the New York when launched will be the biggest and most powerful fighting ship ever constructed for the United States navy. She and her sister ship, the Texas, will be larger in every way than the Florida, which, it is expected, will soon be ready to go into commission at the Brooklyn yard. The New York is to be built entirely by the construction corps of the navy at the New York navy yard, of which Commander Robert Stocker, U. S. N., is the head. The great battleship is shown on the ways in the lower photograph, and above is seen a diver examining the ways under water on which the ship will slide into its watery berth.

BALKAN ALLIES GATHER FORCE

No Indication of Any Extension of Hostilities.

London, Oct. 10.—Another day has elapsed without any extension of the Balkan war. The rumors that Bulgaria and Serbia have declared war are not confirmed. None of the embassies or legations in London had heard of any developments since Montenegro made her hostile declaration against Turkey.

It may be assumed that, while making some show of deference toward the powers' intervention, the Balkan states are busily engaged in completing the concentration of their forces. The king of Greece returned to Athens and some definite move can now be expected on the part of Greece.

It is suggested that the Montenegrin advance on Berana, near the frontier, may indicate the intention of that country to effect a junction with the Serbian army from the north. No further details of actual fighting have been received.

The Russian government has issued a denial of the reported mobilization of her army. Russia declares that all the reservists called up for a test have already been disbanded. It is understood that Germany will protect Turkish subjects in the Balkan states should war ensue.

News from Sofia, Bulgaria, says that the rapidity of the concentration of the army has exceeded all expectations, and developments will now be very rapid. Everything in connection with the mobilization has worked with the utmost smoothness, and there has been a remarkable absence of confusion at the war offices.

Police Officials Fired.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Police Captain John J. Mahoney and Lieutenant Bernard J. C.

St. Clairsville, O., Oct. 10.—Mayor H. M. The letters were turned over to the postal authorities.

"Bill" Flynn Outgenerals Republicans In Maneuvers

Latter Now Will Have a Ticket Without Electors On It.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The leaders of the Republican organization have been outwitted by Senator Flynn over the withdrawals of the Roosevelt electors from the Republican ticket in the state. According to the agreement the electors were to have been withdrawn before midnight, as that is the last hour for the filing of petitions for new electors and also for candidates for state officers. It had been urged that when the Roosevelt electors withdrew the Taft Republicans could substitute new electors.

N. D. W. English, one of the electors, left Pittsburgh for Harrisburg with the withdrawals, but instead of filing it, did not present his papers at the state department before midnight, so that the Taft forces will have to vote for a Republican ticket without any electors upon it or else vote the Lincoln party ticket in this state.

Charles Taft Put Up $213,000
For His Brother This Year.

HANNA GIVES TEDDY BIG SUM

Amount Apportioned For the Buckeye State and the Men Who Distributed the Same in the Republican and Bull Moose Contests—Senator Scott and Judge Lovett Also Before the Senate Committee.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Charles F. Taft of Cincinnati told the senate committee investigating campaign funds that he contributed $159,339.39 to aid in electing his brother president in 1908; and that he had paid $213,592.41 this year toward the expenses of securing the president's renomination at the Chicago convention.

Of the money which Mr. Taft said he supplied for the election of 1908, he testified that $45,000 went to A. I. Vorys and Henry A. Williams for use in Ohio. Of the $213,592.41 which he furnished in the campaign for nomination this year, Mr. Taft said $64,800 went to Mr. Vorys for use in Ohio.

Mr. Taft said his object in going into the campaign was to see that if his brother was elected he should walk into the White House free of any monetary obligation to any individual, great interest or corporation.

Dan Hanna Testifies.

Dan R. Hanna of Cleveland, backer of the Roosevelt forces in Ohio this year, as the president's brother was of the Taft forces, followed Mr. Taft on the witness stand. He testified that he gave $177,000 for the support of the Roosevelt campaign for nomination this year. Of this sum $50,000 went to the Roosevelt national committee, $50,000 to Walter F. Brown, manager of the Roosevelt Ohio campaign, and another $77,000 to the work of reorganization in Ohio under the direction of Mr. Brown, Nat O. Wright and N. D. Schaafale.

The expenses of the fight of Speaker Champ Clark for the Democratic nomination for the presidency was given by his manager, Former Senator Fred T. Dubois, as $50,468.50. Senator Watson of West Virginia was the heaviest contributor, giving $10,700, and William R. Hearst the next, with contributions amounting to $8,500.

Senator Scott of West Virginia told of a telephone conversation he had with the "White House" in 1904. He was in the headquarters of the Republican national committee in New York.

Mr. Scott said he told of the difficulties in getting money for the campaign and the response from "the White House" was: "I would rather lose the election in the country than be defeated in my own state."

"I said, 'There is no danger of your being defeated,'" said Scott. He added that the voice at the White House said: "Mr. Harriman is coming to see me and I'll see if we can arrange to raise the funds to help Higgins."

Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the Harriman system, testified:

"I knew of Mr. Harriman's visit to Washington in October, 1904," he said. "He told me the national committee was 'in a hole' and owed the state committee $200,000. He said, 'the president wants me to help them out and I've got to do it.' Some days later he came to my office and gave some checks and cash. Mr. Bliss came and got them. The sum was $250,000."

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Ida B. Andrews, 43, an inmate of the Columbus State hospital from Morristown, Belmont county, since Aug. 18, 1901, committed suicide at the east end of the hospital grounds by throwing herself in front of a West Broad street car.

Revelations Recited Before Attorney General Hogan and Prosecutor Turner to Be Repeated Before the Grand Jury—Pike County Representative Admits Soliciting Bribe of One Thousand Dollars.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—Dr. George B. Nye, representative from Pike county, appeared before Judge Kin-head unexpectedly and pleaded guilty to an indictment accusing him of having solicited a bribe in connection with the Kimble bill.

The indictment specifies that Dr. Nye, on April 18, 1911, solicited from S. F. Kimble, author of the law to re-district the Pike and Adams county judicial district, the sum of $1,000.

Before appearing in court, Dr. Nye had been in secret conference with Attorney General Hogan and Prosecuting Attorney Turner of this city. It is stated authoritatively he made a full confession regarding corruption in the general assembly, giving the names of the interests and lobbyists who have been tampering with the legislators for years. Here is a sum-sentatives, with Dr. Nye at their head, given.

Dr. Nye's own income from a graft in the legislature totaled $10,000 a year. Statements of Burns detectives fully corroborated.

Names of persons who raised big defense fund for indicted solons told; also those maintaining Diesel family while senate sergeant-at-arms is in prison.

Names of several assemblymen not under indictment who participated in graft made known.

He corroborated in toto the evidence of graft given by Stapley, Bailey and Barry, Burns detectives, who worked up the first graft exposure in the spring of 1911 and which resulted in the indictment of Dr. Nye and others.

The confession exposes the persons who are keeping Rodney J. Diesel's family while he is serving a three-year term in the penitentiary, and also names those who, Dr. Nye says, put up the big defense fund for indicted solons. This bit of information is said to be welcome to the prosecution.

BUTTERMILK.

The long ignored but always wholesome butter milk has suddenly acquired that widespread popularity which its real merit has warranted for a long time.

Buttermilk—good, fresh and creamy, with a few small specks of golden butter floating around on its white surface and buried in its snowy depths and buttermilk aged about four and twenty hours with the same attractive exterior as the fresh buttermilk and just a little twang to it—is not a newly discovered drink.

For years and years many people have known that buttermilk was good to drink, but the number of wise persons and the amount they drank, did not begin to consume the quantity of this by-product of the lowly kine.

Pail after pail, hundreds of thousands of pails, full of buttermilk have been thrown to the pigs and the poultry by the good farmer's wife who must keep the jugs and jars clean and pure to hold the fresh milk.

Hence the animal world and the kingdom of the barn-yard fowls, have grown fat while man was overlooking a good thing.

Several years ago some of the men who bend their elbows too much discovered that there was nothing which more quickly set to rights a deranged digestive apparatus caused by too violent exercise in bending elbows and too much of a strain on the eyes looking into the bottom of a thin glass, than good buttermilk.

Once it was discovered that buttermilk would replace the lining in the stomach which had been burned out with alcohol, the spread of its popularity was assured and rapid.

In these days the product of the creameries and the back porch hand churning of the prosperous farmer, is totally inadequate to meet the demand for the drink that fills, fattens and freshens man.

Now every bar, every ice cream stand and every soda fountain has its fresh buttermilk on tap and very seldom is it carried over from one day to another, so great is the demand.

There is nothing better—nothing that tastes better and nothing that treats man better—than a good cool glass of buttermilk. Its increase in popularity has been phenomenal and is wholly deserved.

Poetry For Today

A TOAST TO RILEY.

When the rosy eve is gliding, rain-bow-tinted, down the West,
And is limning ruby shadows on the portals where I rest—
Rest to ponder out the problems that a day's existence brings—
It is then I feel the spirit of the song my poet sings.

Then I long so much to nestle close to Nature's throbbing heart
And to listen to the pipings of her fascinating art.

And I wander in my dreaming through Nature's cloistered aisles
And I find the hidden witchery of Riley's written smiles.

When the cricket in the clover lifts a nocturne sweet to me,
And the timid life of Nature lifts a-singing o'er the lea,
There is peace in every lyric, for the troubadours of night
Seem to me as if rehearsing for the carols you indite.

So, for you who hold communion with all the birds that sing,
Who paints a new splendence on each prismatic wing,
It is well that we foregather at the poet's shrine today
With an opulent affection in the homage that we pay.

And your heart will swell with pleasure and the mists be in your eyes
To see thy myriad devotees from all the earth arise.

Oh, what a merry pilgrimage, and what a loved one too,
As laughingly the concourse comes to spend a day with you.

For there never was a songster to the common folk so dear—
Whose cheerful strain has fettered every fount that holds a tear—

So, here's hoping, praying, wishing, James, your days be with us long,
With the quaintness of your fancies and the gladness of your song.

Many Little Helps in Calling Fate's Bluff

By Rev. FRANK CRANE, Chicago

IT IS wonderful what you can do if you will only keep your chin up. This is a strange world, and one of the strangest things about it is the way it sympathizes with success.

We are supposed to sympathize with failure and grief, but we don't.

I am going to tell you the truth about this naughty world, and the truth is that whichever way you're going, up or down, people want to help you along.

If you are going up we all want to boost; if you are going down we all want to push. That is what we call sympathy.

You hear complaints that the rich are growing richer and the poor poorer. That has always been the case, simply because it is human nature. Society has always been organized to increase the wealth of the wealthy and the power of the powerful; also to make the weak weaker.

There's no use whining about it. It is simply one of the flinty laws of nature. The only thing to do with nature's laws is to adjust oneself to them and not complain.

This might be called the law of the inertia of prosperity.

You are guilty yourself. Whom do you want to see? The man everybody wants to see. And you read the book everybody's reading and go to the store where it is "the thing" to go.

"Follow the crowds," says the advertiser, with the shrewd knowledge of our makeup.

If you have a hundred dollars ahead to whom do you want to hand it? To the poor man who needs it? Not at all, but to the rich banker who doesn't need it.

If I ask you for the loan of a quarter you will pass it over to me without a word if you think it is a trifling matter to me; but if you suspect I really am in want and need the quarter to buy a little food with, that's quite another affair; you can't encourage that sort of thing; I should go to the Associated Charities.

Now, the way to use this law is to feign prosperity even if you have it not. Keep your chin up.

Wear good clothes. Don't withdraw from the society of the prosperous. Look pleasant. Don't let yourself get down at the heel. Don't get that poor beggar look on your face.

It isn't hypocrisy. It isn't pretense. It is sheer courage. It is letting the world know that while you live you propose to fight, and that like old General Taylor you "don't know when you're licked."

Keep smiling and an unfriendly universe will not know what to do with you; so it will crown you.

Says Alfred de Vigny: "All those that struggle against the unjust heavens have had the admiration and secret love of men."

Fate is a bluff. Face her, defy her, and she will fawn on you. Fate is cruel, but only to the quitter.

Middletown, Conn.—George Ward, an old-time athlete, who four months ago began a series of experiments in living on a minimum quantity of foods of various character, is a patient in a local hospital suffering from lack of nutrition. Although his condition is serious, the physicians say that careful treatment will restore his health, as he has a strong constitution.

Ward is seventy-four years old. He was formerly a well-known long-distance walker. A few weeks ago he announced that he had cut down his diet to a basis where the cost was only 26 cents a week. His menu consisted principally of oatmeal, crackers and pancakes.

Dogs as Beasts of Burden.

A memory of the times when dogs worked for a living in England is seen in the "dog cart," which originally was literally drawn by dogs, and, until prohibited in 1839 by act of parliament, was the workingman's usual means of taking a run into the country. Strong half-bred mastiffs were usually employed, and these thought nothing of conveying their masters 50 or 60 miles in a day with no more sustenance than bread soaked in beer.

BUTTERMILK.

The long ignored but always wholesome butter milk has suddenly acquired that widespread popularity which its real merit has warranted for a long time.

Buttermilk—good, fresh and creamy, with a few small specks of golden butter floating around on its white surface and buried in its snowy depths and buttermilk aged about four and twenty hours with the same attractive exterior as the fresh buttermilk and just a little twang to it—is not a newly discovered drink.

For years and years many people have known that buttermilk was good to drink, but the number of wise persons and the amount they drank, did not begin to consume the quantity of this by-product of the lowly kine.

Pail after pail, hundreds of thousands of pails, full of buttermilk have been thrown to the pigs and the poultry by the good farmer's wife who must keep the jugs and jars clean and pure to hold the fresh milk.

Hence the animal world and the kingdom of the barn-yard fowls, have grown fat while man was overlooking a good thing.

Several years ago some of the men who bend their elbows too much discovered that there was nothing which more quickly set to rights a deranged digestive apparatus caused by too violent exercise in bending elbows and too much of a strain on the eyes looking into the bottom of a thin glass, than good buttermilk.

Once it was discovered that buttermilk would replace the lining in the stomach which had been burned out with alcohol, the spread of its popularity was assured and rapid.

In these days the product of the creameries and the back porch hand churning of the prosperous farmer, is totally inadequate to meet the demand for the drink that fills, fattens and freshens man.

Now every bar, every ice cream stand and every soda fountain has its fresh buttermilk on tap and very seldom is it carried over from one day to another, so great is the demand.

There is nothing better—nothing that tastes better and nothing that treats man better—than a good cool glass of buttermilk. Its increase in popularity has been phenomenal and is wholly deserved.

Poetry For Today

A TOAST TO RILEY.

When the rosy eve is gliding, rain-bow-tinted, down the West,
And is limning ruby shadows on the portals where I rest—
Rest to ponder out the problems that a day's existence brings—
It is then I feel the spirit of the song my poet sings.

Then I long so much to nestle close to Nature's throbbing heart
And to listen to the pipings of her fascinating art.
And I wander in my dreaming through Nature's cloistered aisles
And I find the hidden witchery of Riley's written smiles.

When the cricket in the clover lifts a nocturne sweet to me,
And the timid life of Nature fits a-singing o'er the lea,
There is peace in every lyric, for the troubadours of night
Seem to me as if rehearsing for the carols you indite.

So, for you who hold communion with all the birds that sing,
Who paints a new splendence on each prismatic wing,
It is well that we foregather at the poet's shrine today
With an opulent affection in the homage that we pay.

And your heart will swell with pleasure and the mists be in your eyes
To see thy myriad devotees from all the earth arise.
Oh, what a merry pilgrimage, and what a loved one too,
As laughingly the concourse comes to spend a day with you.

For there never was a songster to the common folk so dear—
Whose cheerful strain has fettered every fount that holds a tear—
So, here's hoping, praying, wishing, James, your days be with us long.
With the quaintness of your fancies and the gladness of your song.

Plumb Good Drawn Battle

the game abounded, and the brilliant fielding and rugged fielding. It was the battle scarred veteran, Mathewson, whom McGraw chose to face the heavy hitting Red Sox. At recurrent periods Matty was bumped savagely by the Red Sox, but he stood up to the punishment like a major and survived more than one dangerous situation.

Not an iota less ruthless was the batting of the Giants. The Giants had the satisfaction of knocking one Boston pitcher out of the box. Ray Collins, the southpaw pride of the Hub, was forced to vacate the eminence in the eighth inning, so vehement was New York's onslaught in that period.

Costly Errors.

An error by Lewis, however, a muffed fly, opened the way to the slugging score which rocked Collins from his throne, and it was a costly error. Yet it was Boston's only error. The Red Sox outfielded the Giants. They were steadier. The only inexpensive New York misplay was a muffed foul by Merkle. Fletcher was the weak spot in the New York fortress. His errors were extremely costly. In truth, several Boston runs can be traced to the transgressions of the unfortunate Fletcher. He muffed a liner and lost a chance for a double play, he muffed a throw to stop a steal, and let a grounder go through him. There were men on bases every time he did these things and the men on bases scored.

In the tenth inning Speaker hit a hot one to the center field boundary. It flew back to Becker, who relayed it to Shafer. Speaker tried for a home run and reached the goal when Wilson muffed the throw-in on the bound.

Speaker was angry all over when he got up, declaring that Herzog had tried to block him at third base. He appealed to Rigler, and when the inning was over started out toward Herzog. Larry Doyle met him half way and acted as peacemaker.

How Runs Were Made.

Boston opened the throttle in their first and scored three runs. Hooper shot a grounder which slid off Matty's hand. Hooper stole second. He started for third on a hit and run play and Yerkes winged a liner to Fletcher. The latter had a double play made to order, but dropped the ball. Hooper was able to get back to second, and both he and Yerkes advanced when Speaker bunted safely. With three on and nobody out, Matty made Lewis hit a roller to Herzog, who threw out Hooper at the plate. Matty tried to clutch Gardner's chop hit, but couldn't. Doyle backed up and nailed Gardner at first, Yerkes scoring. Stahl pounded a beauty between third and short and scored two more.

New York scored in the second on Herzog's triple and Wagner's single.

MRS. THOMAS R. MARSHALL.

Wife of the Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee. Honorary Vice President Woman's National Democratic League.

Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the vice presidential nominee of the Democratic party, is a keen student of affairs and as the constant companion of her husband has had an exceptional opportunity of specializing on human nature. A very practical and far-reaching result of this peculiar interest in the larger family of the state—she has no children of her own—is found in the long list of humanitarian bills passed by the Indiana legislature during her husband's regime as governor. A bill to curtail child labor heads the list, which numbers twenty, and includes almost every legal correction for the immediate relief of labor, especially for that pertaining to women and children.

The Marshall home, like that of the Wilsons, is a home of books, and yet one does not feel "bookish" within its walls. On the contrary, one feels very much at home there the moment Mrs. Marshall appears upon the scene, and, if possible, more so when Mr. Marshall comes in.

They are such chums, this "tender hearted" governor and his wife, and where one is the other is pretty sure to be found. They have traveled all over the country together, and if the Woman's National Democratic league has anything to do with it they will soon be going to Washington together.

Mrs. Marshall is honorary vice president of the league and keenly interested in its work, not because it is part of the campaign, but because she recognizes the permanency of the movement to educate women in the principles of democracy.

which bounded back and struck Shortstop Wagner in the face. The Giants added another in the fourth, when Murray hit to deep right for three bases and reached home on Herzog's fly to Speaker. Mathewson, after the first inning, had been pitching in his best form.

Boston made another run in the fifth. Hooper singled to center, his third hit, and stole second. He scored on Yerkes' triple to right center. Fletcher grabbed Speaker's fly and doubled up Yerkes.

Both sides got busy in the eighth, New York scoring three runs and Boston one, tying up the score. Snodgrass was safe when Lewis dropped his fly. Doyle singled to center, but was forced at second. Snodgrass scored on Murray's double. Pitcher Collins was dickered at this point and Hall substituted. Herzog hit for two bases, scoring Becker and Murray.

For Boston Lewis drove out a double and scored on Gardner's vicious drive through short.

There was no further scoring until the tenth, when Merkle led off with a triple. McCormick, batting for Fletcher, flied to Lewis, scoring Merkle.

Wilson relieved Chief Meyers. With one out Speaker hit for three bases and scored when Wilson muffed the ball, relayed from the field. Lewis doubled, but was left.

In the eleventh, Pitcher Bedient relieved Hall. He hit Snodgrass, first man up, and struck out Doyle. Snodgrass, a moment later, was out stealing. Becker walked, but was also caught at second. Boston went out in one-two-three order in its half.

PLAY IN BOSTON TODAY

Drawn Battle Must Be Fought Over In the Hub.

Boston, Oct. 10.—According to the rules governing the world's series, yesterday's game must be played over here today. In case of rain, the teams will remain in this city until game No. 2 has been decided.

The players will share in yesterday's receipts, however, just as if there had been a winner. This play-off will not cause confusion for Boston fans, inasmuch as holders of reserved seats for the regularly scheduled second game in this city will be admitted today. By this rearrangement the Giants and Red Sox are now scheduled to play in New York on Friday, coming back here for Saturday's game.

Scoreless Game.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Darkness ended a scoreless game between the Chicago American and National league clubs, which met in the opening game of a series to decide the baseball championship of Chicago. The contest was called in the ninth inning. Walsh pitched in rare form, holding the National league to one hit. Lavender also pitched well, allowing only six scattered hits.

Another For Athletics.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The Philadelphia American league baseball team won their second game in the local interleague series here, defeating the Philadelphia National league players by a score of 4 to 0. Honck, the young Oregon twirler, allowed the Phillies only two hits.

Nationals Win.

St. Louis, Oct. 10.—The local National league team won the opening game of the interleague city championship series with the American league club by 7 to 6, in 10 hard-fought innings.

SHE BURNED THE HOUSE.

A woman in Montana sat down the other day and thought about house cleaning—about the carpets and rugs to clean, the woodwork to wash, the bedding to wash, the curtains to wash, the portiers to wash, the stairways and the railings and the floors and the steps and the windows and everything else to be washed and cleaned—and she got so worried over the prospect that she set fire to the house. Do you blame her? If she had only known as you do that Easy Task soap will do half the work of washing and cleaning, she would have felt more cheerful. It's a nickel a cake and one woman said she would pay a dollar a cake for it if she could get it no other way.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—Attorney Harding, speaking for the defendants in the dynamiting cases, denied every material statement that District Attorney Miller had made respecting the proof that would be offered, and spent much time in demonstrating that no member of the organization had knowledge of dynamiting except the two McNamaras and Orrie McManigal. Mr. Harding went into the testimony that the defense will offer at considerable length.

Dictagraph Mystery Clear

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—The mystery attending the placing of the dictagraph under the desk of President Frank Ryan of the Iron workers after the arrest of J. J. McNamara, and through which the government got much of its evidence against the dynamiters, was cleared by the statements of District Attorney Miller to the jury that Hockin had admitted the government officers to Ryan's office and had himself assisted in placing the dictagraph just back of Ryan's desk, where it would record all that was said in the office.

State Board To Prohibit Sale of Calves

Sandies Says 'Next Legislature Will Be Asked to Enact Bill.'

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—Secretary A. P. Sandies of the state board of agriculture announced that the legislature would be asked to prohibit the sale of calves for veal. "Veal is not good food," he said, "and if the killing of veal calves was stopped there would be more good beef sold at a lower price." He anticipated that farmers, who are getting fancy prices for calves, would oppose the bill.

WHAT THE HAIR BRUSH SHOWS.

Blackmer & Tanquary, our local druggists in Washington C. After using it my hair is so soft and fluffy it looks twice as thick as it really is."

"It is so easy to wash one's own hair with it and Blackmer & Tanquary are selling it at present for 25c. a tube, enough for several shampoos, and guarantee to return your money if you don't like it."

No wonder of nature is more startling than the fact that flint stones consist of the mineralized bodies of animals. Just as coal consists of mineralized vegetable matter. The animals are believed to have been diurnal animalcules, coated with siliceous shells, as the wheat straw of today is coated with a glassy covering of silica.

Geologists are not agreed as to whether the flint is formed by dense masses of the minute animals or whether the flint forms a sepulcher for the countless millions of tiny creatures.

Good Drawn Battle

The game abounded, and the brilliant fielding and ragged fielding. It was the battle scarred veteran, Mathewson, whom McGraw chose to face the heavy hitting Red Sox. At recurrent periods Matty was bumped savagely by the Red Sox, but he stood up to the punishment like a major and survived more than one dangerous situation.

Not an iota less ruthless was the batting of the Giants. The Giants had the satisfaction of knocking one Boston pitcher out of the box. Ray Collins, the southpaw pride of the Hub, was forced to vacate the eminence in the eighth inning, so vehement was New York's onslaught in that period.

Costly Errors.

An error by Lewis, however, a muffed fly, opened the way to the slugging score which rocked Collins from his throne, and it was a costly error. Yet it was Boston's only error. The Red Sox outfielded the Giants. They were steadier. The only inexpensive New York misplay was a muffed foul by Merkle. Fletcher was the weak spot in the New York fortress. His errors were extremely costly. In truth, several Boston runs can be traced to the transgressions of the unfortunate Fletcher. He muffed a liner and lost a chance for a double play, he muffed a throw to stop a steal, and let a grounder go through him. There were men on bases every time he did these things and the men on bases scored.

In the tenth inning Speaker hit a hot one to the center field boundary. It flew back to Becker, who relayed it to Shaffer. Speaker tried for a home run and reached the goal when Wilson muffed the throw-in on the bound.

Speaker was angry all over when he got up, declaring that Herzog had tried to block him at third base. He appealed to Higley, and when the ruling was over started out toward Herzog. Larry Doyle met him half way and acted as peacemaker.

How Runs Were Made.

Boston opened the throttle in their first and scored three runs. Hooper shot a grounder which slid off Matty's hand. Hooper stole second. He started for third on a hit and run play and Yerkes winged a liner to Fletcher. The latter had a double play made to order, but dropped the ball. Hooper was able to get back to second, and both he and Yerkes advanced when Speaker bunted safely. With three on and nobody out, Matty made Lewis hit a roller to Herzog, who threw out Hooper at the plate. Matty tried to clutch Gardner's chop hit, but couldn't. Doyle backed up and nailed Gardner at first. Yerkes scoring. Stahl pounded a beauty between third and short and scored two more.

New York scored in the second on Herzog's triple and Wagner's single.

MRS. THOMAS R. MARSHALL.

Wife of the Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee. Honorary Vice President Woman's National Democratic League.

Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the vice presidential nominee of the Democratic party, is a keen student of affairs and as the constant companion of her husband has had an exceptional opportunity of specializing on human nature. A very practical and far-reaching result of this peculiar interest in the larger faculty of the state—she has no children of her own—is found in the long list of humanitarian bills passed by the Indiana legislature during her husband's regime as governor. A bill to curtail child labor heads the list, which numbers twenty, and includes almost every legal correction for the immediate relief of labor, especially for that pertaining to women and children.

The Marshall home, like that of the Wilsons, is a home of books, and yet one does not feel "bookish" within its walls. On the contrary, one feels very much at home there the moment Mrs. Marshall appears upon the scene, and, if possible, more so when Mr. Marshall comes in.

They are such chums, this "tender hearted" governor and his wife, and where one is the other is pretty sure to be found. They have traveled all over the country together, and if the Woman's National Democratic League has anything to do with it they will soon be going to Washington together.

Mrs. Marshall is honorary vice president of the league and keenly interested in its work, not because it is part of the campaign, but because she recognizes the permanency of the movement to educate women in the principles of democracy.

which bounded badly and struck Shortstop Wagner in the face. The Giants added another in the fourth, when Murray hit to deep right for three bases and reached home on Herzog's fly to Speaker. Mathewson, after the first inning, had been pitching in his best form.

Boston made another run in the fifth. Hooper singled to center, his third hit, and stole second. He scored on Yerkes' triple to right center. Fletcher grabbed Speaker's fly and doubled up Yerkes.

Both sides got busy in the eighth. New York scoring three runs and Boston one, tying up the score. Snodgrass was safe when Lewis dropped his fly. Doyle singled to center, but was forced at second. Snodgrass scored on Murray's double. Pitcher Collins was derrickated at this point and Hall substituted. Herzog hit for two bases, scoring Becker and Murray.

For Boston Lewis drove out a double and scored on Gardner's vicious drive through short.

There was no further scoring until the tenth, when Merkle led off with a triple. McCormick, batting for Fletcher, flied to Lewis, scoring Merkle.

Wilson relieved Chief Meyers. With one out Speaker hit for three bases and scored when Wilson muffed the ball, relayed from the field. Lewis doubled, but was left.

In the eleventh, Pitcher Bedient relieved Hall. He hit Snodgrass, first man up, and struck out Doyle. Snodgrass, a moment later, was out stealing. Becker walked, but was also caught at second. Boston went out in one-two-three order in its half.

PLAY IN BOSTON TODAY

Drawn Battle Must Be Fought Over In the Hub.

Boston, Oct. 10.—According to the rules governing the world's series, yesterday's game must be played over here today. In case of rain, the teams will remain in this city until game No. 2 has been decided.

The players will share in yesterday's receipts, however, just as if there had been a winner. This play-off will not cause confusion for Boston fans, inasmuch as holders of reserved seats for the regularly scheduled second game in this city will be admitted today. By this rearrangement the Giants and Red Sox are now scheduled to play in New York on Friday, coming back here for Saturday's game.

Scoreless Game.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Darkness ended a scoreless game between the Chicago American and National league clubs, which met in the opening game of a series to decide the baseball championship of Chicago. The contest was called in the ninth inning. Walsh pitched in rare form, holding the National leaguers to one hit. Lavender also pitched well, allowing only six scattered hits.

Another For Athletics.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The Philadelphia American league baseball team won their second game in the local interleague series here, defeating the Philadelphia National league players by a score of 4 to 0. Houck, the young Oregon twirler, allowed the Phillies only two hits.

Nationals Win.

St. Louis, Oct. 10.—The local National league team won the opening game of the interleague city championship series with the American league club by 7 to 6, in 10 hard-fought innings.

SHE BURNED THE HOUSE.

A woman in Montana sat down the other day and thought about house cleaning—about the carpets and rugs to clean, the woodwork to wash, the bedding to wash, the curtains to wash, the portiers to wash, the stairways and the railings and the floors and the steps and the windows and everything else to be washed and cleaned—and she got so worried over the prospect that she set fire to the house. Do you blame her? If she had only known as you do that Easy Task soap will do half the work of washing and cleaning, she would have felt more cheerful. It's a nickel a cake and one woman said she would pay a dollar a cake for it if she could get it no other way.

Harding Denies Miller's Charge

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—Attorney Harding, speaking for the defendants in the dynamiting cases, denied every material statement that District Attorney Miller had made respecting the proof that would be offered, and spent much time in demonstrating that no member of the organization had knowledge of dynamiting except the two McNamaras and Orrie McManigal. Dictagraph Mystery Clear

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—The mystery attending the placing of the dictagraph under the desk of President Frank Ryan of the iron workers after the arrest of J. J. McNamara, and through which the government got much of its evidence against the dynamiters, was cleared by the statements of District Attorney Miller to the jury that Hockin had admitted the government officers to Ryan's office and had himself assisted in placing the dictagraph just back of Ryan's desk, where it would record all that was said in the office.

State Board To Prohibit Sale of Calves

Sandles Says Next Legislature Will Be Asked to Enact Bill.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—Secretary A. P. Sandles of the state board of agriculture announced that the legislature would be asked to prohibit the sale of calves for veal. "Veal is not good food," he said, "and if the killing of veal calves was stopped there would be more good beef sold at a lower price." He anticipated that farmers, who are getting fancy prices for calves, would oppose the bill.

No wonder of nature is more startling than the fact that flint stones consist of the mineralized bodies of animals, just as coal consists of mineralized vegetable matter. The animals are believed to have been isomorphous animals, coated with siliceous shells, as the wheat straw of today is coated with a glassy covering of silica.

Geologists are not agreed as to whether the flint is formed by dense masses of the minute animals or whether the flint forms a sepulcher for the countless millions of tiny creatures.

YOUR COAL PROBLEM SOLVED

No need to worry about your winter's coal bill if you use the

ESTATE HOT STORM

It burns any grade of soft coal in a highly successful manner, through the use of the Estate Hot Blast and Hot Air Circulating Systems, the greatest improvements ever made in a soft coal stove.

It beats by both radiation and hot air circulation, producing practically double the heat that is secured with ordinary coal stoves from the same amount of fuel.

By putting in coal once a day or two a steady fire from the time it is put up in the fall till taken down in the spring can be kept with but little attention and absolutely without smoke and gas escaping into the room.

You get this decidedly superior service, this demonstrable fuel economy, for the price of an ordinary stove. An examination will convince you.

Council Changes Work Of Previous Sessions Tackles New Business

"Lead Pipe" Ordinance Killed and

PROBABLY BE INSTALLED

Sewerage Questions Discussed at Length, and $2,000 Bond Issue Ordinance Passes--Yeoman
Street Sewer Causes a Lengthy Argument and Sewer Is Ordered In--Other Affairs.

Quite a little business was transacted at the special session of Council Wednesday night. At the opening all members were present but Rothrock, and he came in three-quarters of an hour later.

Attorney C. A. Reid, representing the Washington Gas & Electric Co., addressed Council asking that the "lead pipe" ordinance be rescinded, or at least that part which referred to gas pipes and hot water pipes. He pointed out the unfitness of lead pipe for the hot water system, and also for gas purposes, and said the lead pipe would cause more trouble than the iron pipes used at the present time.

Upon motion by Durant the clerk was directed to not have the ordinance published until further notice from Council, the action virtually killing the "lead pipe" ordinance.

The question of proper repairs being made by the Gas and Heating Co. when streets were open to lay pipes, came up, and Durant asked President G. N. Clapp about arrangements for making repairs. President Clapp stated that arrangements had been made with the street commissioner for repairing streets where cut into by the company, and the cost assessed against the company, but believed this had not been done lately. He frankly admitted that he was ashamed of the condition in which the streets had been left in some places.

Mr. Clapp also stated that when the time came for paving streets that all hot water pipes would be re-insulated, if found necessary, so that the streets would not be disturbed.

McLean reported that the committee appointed to investigate the erection of a combination building on the city lot, had not acted, and as the Elks have contracted for a new home in the Hunt building, the proposal is, to all appearances, dead.

Durant said that a great deal of complaint was being made about poor street lights, and asked Mr. Clapp what could be done. Mr. Clapp responded, stating that the question of obtaining new lights had been up for many years, and that the old lights were so much behind the 16 new lights, that when the citizens compared them, the old lights were condemned as being poor, and that the new lights were actually giving as much again light as the old ones. He spoke of the company's proposal to install all new lights at no extra cost, providing the contract was made 10 years, instead of expiring in 1915.

Upon motion by Rothrock a committee, consisting of Rothrock, McLean and Veall, was appointed to investigate the company's proposal.

The clerk read Mayor Smith's report, showing $64.70 collected. The report was for the month ending June 30. Durant requested that the itemized report be read, and this was done. Chapman stated that the report was three months behind time.

Auditor Pine's report was read, showing $6,832.90 balance at the beginning of the present month.

An ordinance to issue $2,000 for general sewerage purposes, was placed on its first reading, Chapman and Durant voting no. After a quiet confab with the two members who had voted no, Veall succeeded in obtaining suspension of the rules and the second and third readings.

When Veall moved for passage of the ordinance, Rothrock took the floor and stated that while the bond issue was all right for the purpose proposed, that he favored increasing the amount to that estimated by Engineer Kennedy as being necessary for a trunk sewer along the creek.

This brought Durant to his feet with the statement that he was opposed to the false economy plan of piece-mealing the sewerage system.

Rothrock then stated that his plan was to connect the sewers by a sanitary trunk line, which would carry the sewerage down below town, and that his objection to the previous plan was the pumping station and cost of maintenance. Veall pointed out that Rothrock's plan would require a vote of the people. Durant said the State Board of Health had informed him that they would permit no such plan, and that there was a demand for sewerage outlets all over the city. Chapman and Durant voted against the $2,000 issue when it came up for passage, and as it was thought the ordinance was killed by the nay votes, Durant moved that the former resolution calling for an election on the $100,000 bond issue question, be placed upon its first reading.

President Light announced that the $2,000 bond issue ordinance had passed, whereupon Durant withdrew his motion to revive the $100,000 bond issue proposal.

An ordinance to amend an ordinance to levy special assessments on Delaware street, was passed under suspension. The re-assessing ordinances were necessary on account of the court's ruling on the "foot-frontage" question. The Delaware ordinance was originally passed in May, 1911.

C. E. Baughn, who had previously addressed Council on the Yeoman street sewer question, stating that he had secured waivers to take place of the notices not served, and had asked for instructions to be issued for the improvement, again appeared before Council and the question was taken up. After a great deal of argument, during which various plans for immediate improvement were suggested and none seemed to be feasible, a resolution to proceed with the improvement was passed, with the understanding that the necessary waivers be obtained. Mr. Baughn suggested that the solicitor draw up the waivers so they would be just right, and the solicitor stated that it was important that the waivers be drawn right, also mentioning that at present he had two cases in court where the question of serving notices had caused the trouble. Action to pass resolution to pay for the Hinde street improvements, was suspended for 30 days.

Rothrock then spoke of having the "lead pipe" ordinance rescinded, he being absent when Council acted upon the question. He was informed that action had already been taken.

Another re-assessing ordinance for Green street, was passed under suspension. One on the Forest street improvement, also passed under suspension.

Before adjournment Cox asked about the purchase of additional ground for extension of the cemetery limits. Solicitor Rankin held that the trustees must first agree to purchase additional territory, and authorize Council to make the purchase. A motion by Cox that the trustees meet with Council at the next meeting, carried.

Golden Wedding In Golden State

Relatives in this city have just received newspaper clippings from Los Angeles, Cal., giving lengthy accounts of the celebration of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Baughn. The principals are former residents of this county and well known to the older citizens here. Mr. Baughn is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Zackariah Baughn, Fayette county pioneers, who lived for many years near the Sugar Creek Baptist church, just west of this city on the Jamestown pike. Among the brothers and sisters of Mr. Baughn residing here are Noah Baughn and Mrs. Eldora Stinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Baughn were married 50 years ago in Tulon, Ill., and located in Los Angeles in 1893, where they have since made their home. Both are hale and hearty and it is the sincere wish of all their friends that they may live to see many more happy wedding anniversaries.

Special Assessments Are Given Attention By Examiner Bowles

Gross Inattention on Part of Some Official or Officials Is Pointed Out in Report.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY
COLLECTIONS NOT MADE

Injustice Done to Citizens By Non-collection of Special Assessments Reaching Into the Thousands, and Covering Period of Ten Years Back--Vast Amount Dropped From Tax Duplicate.

In his report of conditions existing in Fayette county at the present time, State Examiner Thomas Q. Bowles discusses at length the great amount of unpaid special assessments and blames their non-collection upon the laxity of officials in charge during the past ten years, and claims that through the non-enforcement of the special assessments, that a great injustice has been done Washington citizens.

According to Examiner Bowles there should be no excuse accepted for the non-collection of the assessments, and that refusal to pay should be the signal for immediate legal action to collect the taxes.

He also points to the excuses given for failure to collect the taxes, and points out that $21,108.13 was "dropped" from the duplicate in 1910.

In a number of instances the assessments have not been paid because of some technicality, or claim of illegality made by the person assessed. At present there is a case or two pending in court in which the defendants claim that they were not properly notified, and claim that consequently the special assessment against them was illegal.

Examiner Bowles, discussing the unpaid assessments, says:

"There remained unpaid at the August settlement, taxes on ditches, the sum of $6,728.58. Something over $4,000 of this amount is in litigation, leaving about $2500 in arrears with various explanations therefor, but in the main simply because the land owners refused to pay, and it appears that little effort has been made to enforce payment. It is unjust that part should pay for the improvement and others be released. If the assessment is illegal none should pay. If it is legal none should escape payment. Suits in law should at once be brought against those delinquent. These arrears are not for the last two collections but extend back for years.

"There was carried to the 1910 duplicates the following:

"Assessments on different streets in Washington, $15,417.84; direct levies, including interest, and former delinquencies on same, $8,155.45. A total of $24,573.29.

"These taxes have, in some cases, been due since 1901, most of them, however, since 1903. On 1910 duplicate $21,108.13 of this amount was dropped and the word "dropped" constitutes the only explanation. And it is apparent that no effort in the future will be made to collect it. The policy of the officials in regard to the payment of street improvements in this city seems to have been one of indifference so far as forcing collections was concerned.

"The tax was listed against the property and if the owner thereof voluntarily paid it the treasurer kindly accepted it. On other streets on which taxes at present are being collected such notations as the following appear:

Amount charged, $30.75. "Nothing more can be collected."

Amount charged, $318.63. "Settled in full by resolution of Council for $95.98."

Amount charged, $3.39. "Nothing can be collected."

Amount charged, $240.75. "Settled in full by payment of $42."

Amount charged, $10.88. "Settled by payment of $5.18."

Amount charged, $156.31. "No more to be collected."

"The cost of these improvements had to be paid and the property most benefited escaped its share. To locate to whom this indifference and injustice should be charged is difficult. As will be seen in the 'notations', the City Council assumes authority in certain cases. The fact remains that by the laxity of those in authority much injustice has been done the citizens of the city.

"There is only one way for a municipality to settle a controversy concerning the collection of taxes. Action should at once be brought against those who refuse to pay the first assessment. The court would either enjoin the collection of, or the treasurer sell the property assessed. There is no desire on the part of your examiner to dictate any certain policy for Fayette county or Washington city. If, in the course of this examination, he finds thousands of dollars assessed, part of which is paid in good faith, and thousands not paid, then it is his duty to call attention to such procedure."

MAKING TASKS EASY.

There are lots of magazines printed for the purpose of telling women how to make their work lighter. But you can't reduce labor by reading about it. All the philosophy and theory in the world won't help you out on wash day unless you use Easy Task soap, which lives up to its name and makes washing an easy task by doing half the work. Get it at your grocers'.

Council Changes Work Of Previous Sessions Tackles New Business

"Lead Pipe" Ordinance Killed and Reassessing Ordinances Are Passed Last Night.

NEW STREET LIGHTS WILL PROBABLY BE INSTALLED

Sewerage Questions Discussed at Length, and $2,000 Bond Issue Ordinance Passes--Yeoman Street Sewer Causes a Lengthy Argument and Sewer Is Ordered In--Other Affairs.

Quite a little business was transacted at the special session of Council Wednesday night. At the opening all members were present but Rothrock, and he came in three-quarters of an hour later.

Attorney C. A. Reid, representing the Washington Gas & Electric Co., addressed Council asking that the "lead pipe" ordinance be rescinded, or at least that part which referred to gas pipes and hot water pipes. He pointed out the unfitness of lead pipe for the hot water system, and also for gas purposes, and said the lead pipe would cause more trouble than the iron pipes used at the present time.

Upon motion by Durant the clerk was directed to not have the ordinance published until further notice from Council, the action virtually killing the "lead pipe" ordinance.

The question of proper repairs being made by the Gas and Heating Co. when streets were open to lay pipes, came up, and Durant asked President G. N. Clapp about arrangements for making repairs. President Clapp stated that arrangements had been made with the street commissioner for repairing streets where cut into by the company, and the cost assessed against the company, but believed this had not been done lately. He frankly admitted that he was ashamed of the condition in which the streets had been left in some places.

Mr. Clapp also stated that when the time came for paving streets that all hot water pipes would be re-insulated, if found necessary, so that the streets would not be disturbed. McLean reported that the committee appointed to investigate the erection of a combination building on the city lot, had not acted, and as the Elks have contracted for a new home in the Hunt building, the proposal is, to all appearances, dead.

Durant said that a great deal of complaint was being made about poor street lights, and asked Mr. Clapp what could be done. Mr. Clapp responded, stating that the question of obtaining new lights had been up for many years, and that the old lights were so much behind the 16 new lights, that when the citizens compared them, the old lights were condemned as being poor, and that the new lights were actually giving as much again light as the old ones. He spoke of the company's proposal to install all new lights at no extra cost, providing the contract was made 10 years, instead of expiring in 1915.

Upon motion by Rothrock a committee, consisting of Rothrock, McLean and Veall, was appointed to investigate the company's proposal. The clerk read Mayor Smith's report, showing $64.70 collected. The report was for the month ending June 30. Durant requested that the itemized report be read, and this was done. Chapman stated that the report was three months behind time. Auditor Pine's report was read, showing $6,832.90 balance at the beginning of the present month.

An ordinance to issue $2,000 for general sewerage purposes, was placed on its first reading, Chapman and Durant voting no. After a quiet confab with the two members who had voted no, Veall succeeded in obtaining suspension of the rules and the second and third readings.

When Veall moved for passage of the ordinance, Rothrock took the floor and stated that while the bond issue was all right for the purpose proposed, that he favored increasing the amount to that estimated by Engineer Kennedy as being necessary for a trunk sewer along the creek.

This brought Durant to his feet with the statement that he was opposed to the false economy plan of piece-mealing the sewerage system. Rothrock then stated that his plan was to connect the sewers by a sanitary trunk line, which would carry the sewerage down below town, and that his objection to the previous plan was the pumping station and cost of maintenance. Veall pointed out that Rothrock's plan would require a vote of the people. Durant said the State Board of Health had informed him that they would permit no such plan, and that there was a demand for sewerage outlets all over the city. Chapman and Durant voted against the $2,000 issue when it came up for passage, and as it was thought the ordinance was killed by the nay votes, Durant moved that the former resolution calling for an election on the $100,000 bond issue question, be placed upon its first reading. President Light announced that the $2,000 bond issue ordinance had passed, whereupon Durant withdrew his motion to revive the $100,000 bond issue proposal.

An ordinance to amend an ordinance to levy special assessments on Delaware street, was passed under suspension. The re-assessing ordinances were necessary on account of the court's ruling on the "foot-frontage" question. The Delaware ordinance was originally passed in May, 1911.

C. E. Baughn, who had previously addressed Council on the Yeoman street sewer question, stating that he had secured waivers to take place of the notices not served, and had asked for instructions to be issued for the improvement, again appeared before Council and the question was taken up. After a great deal of argument, during which various plans for immediate improvement were suggested and none seemed to be feasible, a resolution to proceed with the improvement was passed, with the understanding that the necessary waivers be obtained. Mr. Baughn suggested that the solicitor draw up the waivers so they would be just right, and the solicitor stated that it was important that the waivers be drawn right, also mentioning that at present he had two cases in court where the question of serving notices had caused the trouble. Action to pass resolution to pay for the Hinde street improvements, was suspended for 30 days.

Rothrock then spoke of having the "lead pipe" ordinance rescinded, he being absent when Council acted upon the question. He was informed that action had already been taken.

Another re-assessing ordinance for Green street, was passed under suspension. One on the Forest street improvement, also passed under suspension.

Before adjournment Cox asked about the purchase of additional ground for extension of the cemetery limits. Solicitor Rankin held that the trustees must first agree to purchase additional territory, and authorize Council to make the purchase. A motion by Cox that the trustees meet with Council at the next meeting, carried.

Golden Wedding In Golden State

Relatives in this city have just received newspaper clippings from Los Angeles, Cal., giving lengthy accounts of the celebration of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Baughn. The principals are former residents of this county and well known to the older citizens here. Mr. Baughn is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Zackariah Baughn, Fayette county pioneers, who lived for many years near the Sugar Creek Baptist church, just west of this city on the Jamestown pike. Among the brothers and sisters of Mr. Baughn residing here are Noah Baughn and Mrs. Eldora Stinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Baughn were married 50 years ago in Tulon, Ill., and located in Los Angeles in 1893, where they have since made their home. Both are hale and hearty and it is the sincere wish of all their friends that they may live to see many more happy wedding anniversaries.

A FIVE-CENT WASHWOMAN. In Evanston, Illinois, washwomen get from $2 to $2.50 per day, and carfare to and from work. Five years ago they got $1.50 a day. Naturally wash day is an expensive day there. But now women everywhere are learning of a wash-day worker that only costs a nickel. Easy Task laundry soap does half the work all by itself, saves money, saves time, saves fuel, saves health and saves clothing. Many women say it solves the servant problem.

Special Assessments Are Given Attention By Examiner Bowles

Gross Inattention on Part of Some Official or Officials Is Pointed Out in Report.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY COLLECTIONS NOT MADE

Injustice Done to Citizens By Non-collection of Special Assessments Reaching Into the Thousands, and Covering Period of Ten Years Back--Vast Amount Dropped From Tax Duplicate.

In his report of conditions existing in Fayette county at the present time, State Examiner Thomas Q. Bowles discusses at length the great amount of unpaid special assessments and blames their non-collection upon the laxity of officials in charge during the past ten years, and claims that through the non-enforcement of the special assessments, that a great injustice has been done Washington citizens.

According to Examiner Bowles there should be no excuse accepted for the non-collection of the assessments, and that refusal to pay should be the signal for immediate legal action to collect the taxes.

He also points to the excuses given for failure to collect the taxes, and points out that $21,108.13 was "dropped" from the duplicate in 1910.

In a number of instances the assessments have not been paid because of some technicality, or claim of illegality made by the person assessed. At present there is a case or two pending in court in which the defendants claim that they were not properly notified, and claim that consequently the special assessment against them was illegal.

Examiner Bowles, discussing the unpaid assessments, says: "There remained unpaid at the August settlement, taxes on ditches, the sum of $6,728.58. Something over $4,000 of this amount is in litigation, leaving about $2500 in arrears with various explanations therefor, but in the main simply because the land owners refused to pay, and it appears that little effort has been made to enforce payment. It is unjust that part should pay for the improvement and others be released. If the assessment is illegal none should pay. If it is legal none should escape payment. Suits in law should at once be brought against those delinquent. These arrears are not for the last two collections but extend back for years. "There was carried to the 1910 duplicates the following:

"Assessments on different streets in Washington, $15,417.84; direct levies, including interest, and former delinquencies on same, $8,155.45. A total of $24,573.29.

"These taxes have, in some cases, been due since 1901, most of them, however, since 1903. On 1910 duplicate $21,108.13 of this amount was dropped and the word "dropped" constitutes the only explanation. And it is apparent that no effort in the future will be made to collect it. The policy of the officials in regard to the payment of street improvements in this city seems to have been one of indifference so far as forcing collections was concerned.

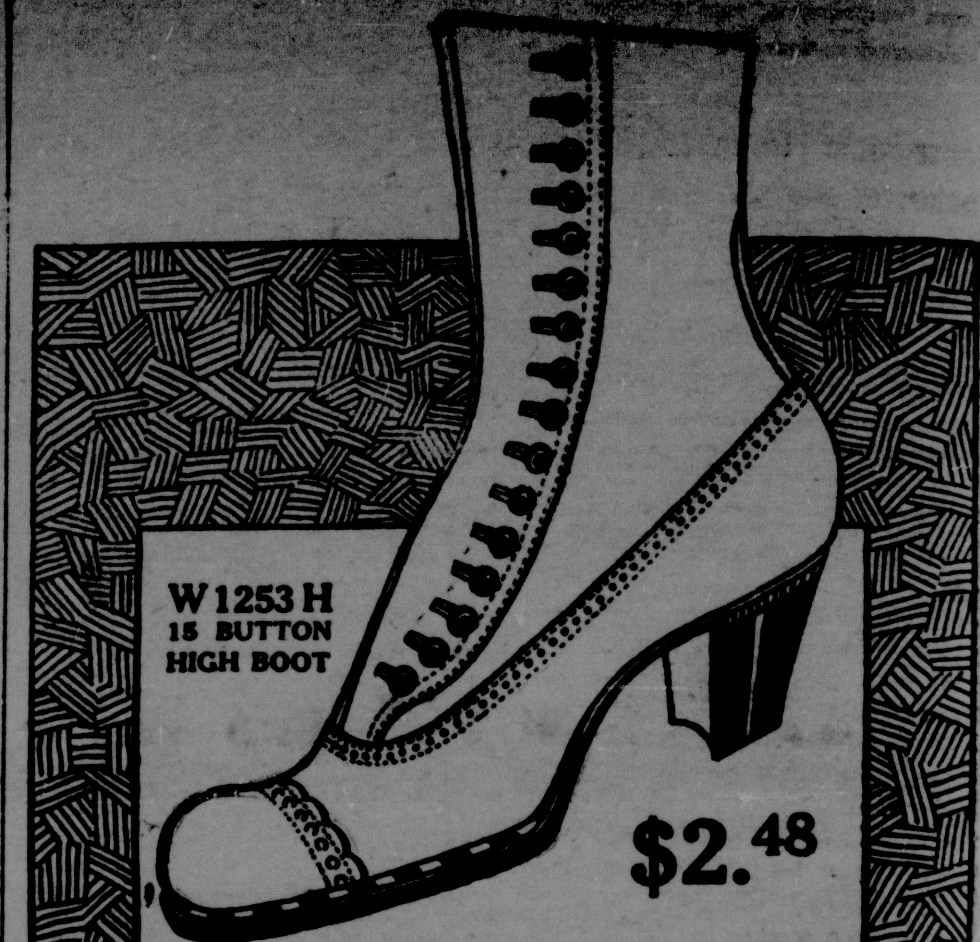

"The tax was listed against the property and if the owner thereof voluntarily paid it the treasurer kindly accepted it. On other streets on which taxes at present are being collected such notations as the following appear:

Amount charged, $30.75. "Nothing more can be collected." Amount charged, $318.63. "Settled in full by resolution of Council for $95.98.

Amount charged, $3.39. "Nothing can be collected." Amount charged, $240.75. "Settled in full by payment of $42."

Amount charged, $10.88. "Settled by payment of $5.18."

Amount charged, $156.31. "No more to be collected." "The cost of these improvements had to be paid and the property most benefited escaped its share. To locate to whom this indifference and injustice should be charged is difficult. As will be seen in the 'notations', the City Council assumes authority in certain cases. The fact remains that by the laxity of those in authority much injustice has been done the citizens of the city.

"There is only one way for a municipality to settle a controversy concerning the collection of taxes. Action should at once be brought against those who refuse to pay the first assessment. The court would either enjoin the collection of, or the treasurer sell the property assessed. There is no desire on the part of your examiner to dictate any certain policy for Fayette county or Washington city. If, in the course of this examination, he finds thousands of dollars assessed, part of which is paid in good faith, and thousands not paid, then it is his duty to call attention to such procedure."

MAKING TASKS EASY.

There are lots of magazines printed for the purpose of telling women how to make their work lighter. But you can't reduce labor by reading about it. All the philosophy and theory in the world won't help you out on wash day unless you use Easy Task soap, which lives up to its name and makes washing an easy task by doing half the work. Get it at your grocers'.

WORK BEGINS ON THE EVANS VENEERING PLANT

New Enterprise Is Located on Sycamore Street, Opposite the Coffman Lumber Yards and Will Turn Out All Kinds of Veneer—Plant Will Be in Operation By First of December.

Work has commenced on the Samuel Evans Veneering plant which will be located on the lot formerly owned by Mr. H. B. Dahl, on the east side of Sycamore street, immediately opposite the Coffman Lumber yards, along the Pennsylvania railroad, and by December 1st Mr. Evans hopes to have the plant in operation. Mr. Evans, who is a genial young business man from Hillsboro, where he has been engaged in the lumber business for a number of years, purchased more than 1 1/2 acres of ground from Mr. Dahl some little time ago, and has a splendid location for his plant.

The building will be 44 by 112 feet, with two floors, and plenty of room to grow. All kinds of veneering will be produced by the plant. For a time only one veneering mill will be run, but next spring two mills will be installed and employment given to several high priced men. This will be the only mill of its kind in this part of the state, and as there is always a ready market for the product of the plant, a most successful future is predicted for Mr. Evans' enterprise.

For the time being Mr. Evans will live in Hillsboro, where he has business interest, but next spring will move his wife and child to this city to make their future home.

Mr. Evans will be made welcome by Washington's citizens, who are greatly pleased to have him locate in this city.

A gang of men have been busy this week, laying new crossings for the C. H. & D. on South Main and South Fayette streets, and while the improvement is not as good as it might be, it is a decided improvement over the old crossings at the above mentioned places.

The new crossings and the new cement sidewalks make a marked improvement on the two streets, although the sidewalks are not all completed. For many months the C. H. & D. crossings have been notoriously bad, and have been shunned by autoists and heavy laden vehicles.

CONTEMPLATES SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD

Carl Schmidt, Father-in-Law of R. T. Steele, May Bring Suit for Heavy Damages for Death of His Son-in-law, Who Was Removed From Train at Heglers and Died Where Left by Trainmen Saturday Night.

Carl Schmidt, of Eber, was in the city Thursday morning making inquiries with a view to bringing suit against the D. T. & I. railroad, or the officials who removed his son-in-law, Robert Thomas Steele, from the train last Saturday night and left him lie upon the ground where death resulted during the night.

Mr. Schmidt holds that owing to the condition of the young man, whom it is claimed, was intoxicated and not able to care for himself, that the men who put him off of the train, or the railroad itself, should be held responsible for the young man's death, and with this in view, he contemplates suit for damages.

It is claimed that Conductor Benner and Brakeman Bowers frankly admit that the man was badly intoxicated, and that they were compelled to lift him from the train and place him on the grass plot where death resulted. No violence was used in any way, it is claimed, and the officials do not believe they contributed to his death. Steele carried a ticket to Heglers.

Mrs. Steele, who was on the same train, but in another coach from that of her husband, came to this city. Since the death of her husband she has been making her home with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schmidt, at Eber. The young husband's death leaves the widow penniless, and with two small children to clothe and feed.

Mr. Smith and his daughter went to Springfield this afternoon where the household goods will be disposed of, or packed for shipment to this city, and Mrs. Steele and children will make their homes with Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt for the present at least.

Coroner Howell has not yet rendered his verdict, but it is said that it will not implicate the trainmen who removed the young man from the train and left him at the station where his ticket called for.

WILL LEAVE STAUNTON HOME.

Mr. L. H. Mark, this side of Staunton, has rented his farm and will probably make this city his future home. Mr. Mark will hold a sale on October 15, disposing of his entire outfit for farming and his farm is now rented.

WORK BEGINS ON THE EVANS VENEERING PLANT

New Enterprise Is Located on Sycamore Street, Opposite the Coffman Lumber Yards and Will Turn Out All Kinds of Veneer—Plant Will Be in Operation By First of December.

Work has commenced on the Samuel Evans Veneering plant which will be located on the lot formerly owned by Mr. H. B. Dahl, on the east side of Sycamore street, immediately opposite the Coffman Lumber yards, along the Pennsylvania railroad, and by December 1st Mr. Evans hopes to have the plant in operation. Mr. Evans, who is a genial young business man from Hillsboro, where he has been engaged in the lumber business for a number of years, purchased more than 1 1/2 acres of ground from Mr. Dahl some little time ago, and has a splendid location for his plant.

The building will be 44 by 112 feet, with two floors, and plenty of room to grow. All kinds of veneering will be produced by the plant. For a time only one veneering mill will be run, but next spring two mills will be installed and employment given to several high priced men. This will be the only mill of its kind in this part of the state, and as there is always a ready market for the product of the plant, a most successful future is predicted for Mr. Evans' enterprise.

For the time being Mr. Evans will live in Hillsboro, where he has business interest, but next spring will move his wife and child to this city to make their future home.

Mr. Evans will be made welcome by Washington's citizens, who are greatly pleased to have him locate in this city.

C. H. & D. Builds New Crossings

A gang of men have been busy this week, laying new crossings for the C. H. & D. on South Main and South Fayette streets, and while the improvement is not as good as it might be, it is a decided improvement over the old crossings at the above mentioned places.

The new crossings and the new cement sidewalks make a marked improvement on the two streets, although the sidewalks are not all completed. For many months the C. H. & D. crossings have been notoriously bad, and have been shunned by autoists and heavy laden vehicles.

HAS ITS PECULIAR CHARM

Market of Guadalupe One of the Most Beautiful That the Tourist Can Visit.

The market of Guadalupe is one of the most beautiful of its size in the western world. Its huge glass dome is pierced by tall palm trees that form natural pillars supplementing those of iron that support the roof of glass. The fish exhibit is the show of the morning, the "blue silk" and "pink silk" fish taking precedence over all others for real beauty. They are laid out on shining marble counters, next to the baskets of flying fish—great piles of shining silver.

A few years ago it dawned upon the people who were running the market that they might do a larger business if they had a car line of some kind. So they put their heads together and devised a means of transit that for general effectiveness goes ahead of many a more ambitious road of rails and electricity.

Today if your business takes you from the market to the sea—a long journey of a quarter of a mile—you may ride on the tram line, the equipment of which consists of one white mule, one driver, one seller of tickets—a woman—one taker of tickets—a man—and one car that seats ten passengers. The mule is decorated with a bunch of flamboyant feathers that wave over his ears like a gaudy ornament.

The driver is provided with a horn, more brassy, more noisy than a dozen ordinary fish horns, which he is supposed to blow a few minutes before the car starts on its journey over the quarter-mile course and at every street corner as he approaches it. Both the seller of tickets and the collector ride on the car, and both assist with the horn and with the mule when called on. The ride is never devoid of interest.

CORN CRIB BANK INSECURE

Fire Transforms 150 $20 Gold Pieces Into a Mass of Yellow Metal.

Chicago.—One hundred and fifty bright and shining $20 gold pieces belonging to Thomas Ballard, owner of a farm at South Western avenue and West 135th street, were quickly converted into an irregular lump of metal a few days ago.

Ballard had a mania for collecting $20 gold pieces. He liked to have them around so well that he got together $5,000 worth of them and stored them in a corner of his corn crib. To keep them from getting lonesome he carelessly chucked in a matter of $500 in paper money.

A short time ago he took a load of hay and started for Blue Island. The morning was calm and bright and Ballard dozed peacefully on the top of the load. He was startled from his dreams by the sound of his name being called. Looking around, he beheld a man running frantically after him. "Your barn is on fire!" screamed the man.

Quickly wheeling his team, Ballard pulled the hay rack around at right angles and dumped the load by the wayside and raced madly back to his farm.

A pathetic sight met his eyes. The barn had burned. Also a shed and several smaller outbuildings. Fire had just attacked the corn crib.

Shouting excitedly for the men who were fighting the fire to direct their efforts to the northeast corner of the crib, Ballard told them that his money was stored there.

It was almost too late. The fire spread with almost incredible rapidity and was soon licking at the corner where lay the golden hoard. The flames were eventually quelled and as soon as the ruins were cool enough the search of the ashes for the treasure began.

Two or three crumpled bills were found; $3,000 in gold was a lumpy mass; $2,000 retained some semblance of $20 gold pieces.

Ballard mournfully surveyed what was left of a once beautiful pile of coin.

POOR MAN'S BRICK IN MEXICO

A crude but valuable art in Mexico is the making of adobe, sun-baked brick. If it were not for this crudely molded slab of sun-cured mud half the people of the Mexican republic would be shelterless. The rich and those of the middle class, who can afford it, build of stone. When the Spaniards came they denuded the forests to the extent that vast tracts were left treeless. Lumber is thus one of the rare commodities of Mexico.

The implements used by a Mexican mud-brick maker are of the most primitive kind: earthen jars to hold the water needed in the mixing, a wooden mold in which the mud squares are shaped, and his own deft palms. Some Mexican builders make only the walls of their homes of the adobe, and that with straw, palm fronds or banana stalks. Others, again, form both walls and roof of the adobe. When this is the case the adobe roof is supported by beams. As will be readily supposed, the adobe is of enormous weight, and if it is not well supported it is likely to collapse upon its owner's head.

When covered by a thick coat of cement, another production of Mexican art, the adobe walls stand for years without showing the least sign of crumbling. There are buildings in Mexico today, some of them public buildings, the cement-coated adobe walls of which were constructed fully a century ago.

TINY BUSINESS BUILDING

What is believed to be the smallest business "building" in the world is located at 2 Light street, Baltimore, Md. This building, for it is a building inasmuch as a building permit was required from the city authorities before it could be erected, stands on a triangular shaped lot, has a frontage of 2 feet 7 inches, a depth of 1 foot 5 inches, and is 8 feet tall. The ground upon which it stands is a remnant left when Light street was widened following the great fire of 1904. At that time the city bought all of the lots fronting on this street, as it was then, took what land was necessary for the reconstructed street, and sold the remnants at public auction. The remnant upon which the smallest "building" stands was sold to Joseph P. Jarboe, who, in common with adjacent owners, enjoys the privilege of using a portion of the area way in the rear. Otherwise his "property" would be of little use to him.

GROUSE BROKE THE GAME LAW

C. M. Donaldson went to Tillamook one day recently looking for Game Warden Leach, for the purpose of filing a complaint against himself for assisting in the suicide of a grouse. It seems that while Mr. Donaldson and helpers were hauling hay from the field to his barn, they disturbed a flock of grouse, frightening the birds considerably, and one of the birds, crazed by fright, flew at Mr. Donaldson, who was on a load of hay, and struck him in the neck, knocking him down and nearly off the load. The force of the blow broke the bird's neck.

Use Straw for Tea Drinking.

London.—Because of the enormous hats which fashion has decreed that women shall wear all society has been forced into a new tea-drinking through a straw. Hats of three-foot diameter have to be balanced carefully, as even the biggest and longest hatpins will not hold them on. Therefore veils are worn tied tightly under the chin and the head is held carefully at the proper angle so that the hat will keep its position.

CHARLESTON, CITY OF CHARM

Her House and Gates Fair and Gracious, and Typical of the Beautiful South.

Charleston, S. C.—Every house in Charleston faces seaward. It frequently happens that the streets do not adjust themselves to this disposition of the house-plan—in which case the street line is calmly disregarded and the house is built so that it shall square with the four points of the compass. The result of this is curious and most interesting—at times disconcerting, but frequently as pleasing as one of Whistler's audacious and unexpected color schemes.

As in the mansions of old Virginia, the general form of the Charleston houses is very simple, and they depend for their beauty upon the fine balance and spacing of doors and windows, the character of the cornice, and above all upon the dignified beauty of the classic porticoes and galleries which adorn one side of each structure.

But Charleston has another and quite unique architectural feature in the arched and ornate walls of moss-grown brick which close in all of the fine residences, and the highly decorative wrought-iron gateways which give access to the private grounds. In a city which was at one time the port of call of all the pirates of the Spanish main—where one day it was found advisable to bury forty of these worthies under the sea-wall of the city; where half-civilized negroes formed always an overwhelming majority of the population, it was the part of common prudence to erect a strong barrier between the streets and the private demesnes of the better-class residents. Out of this necessity grew the infinite number of gates and grillages of twisted iron, which are the chief pride of Charleston today, and whose only rivals are the far-famed gates of Seville. These marvels of wrought and beaten iron were all the work of local smiths. I was told that no two gates of the city were of similar design, and I certainly saw no single example which was not in itself beautiful.—Birge Harrison in Art and Progress.

PASS LIFE AMONG LEPERS

Rev. Charles Kellar Will Devote Ten Months to Possible Discovery of Cure for Disease.

Cambridge, Mass.—After he completes a post-graduate course at Harvard this fall, Rev. Charles Kellar, a Catholic priest, who was graduated in June from the American Medical college of St. Louis, will go to Honolulu and pass the rest of his life among leprosy patients of the Hawaiian islands. He will share their hardships and expose himself to infection from the disease with the end in view of possibly discovering a cure for leprosy, the goal of scientists for centuries.

Father Kellar is forty-eight years old. He resigned his pastorate at Kahoka, Mo., because a throat trouble made it impossible for him to preach. His voice was restored by an operation in St. Louis, and then the priest entered the St. Louis University of Medicine. After a year Father Kellar changed to the American Medical university.

Father Kellar won the highest class honors when he graduated from the American university last June. He studied nervous diseases six weeks at the Alexian Brothers' hospital and then went to Harvard. He expects to depart for Honolulu November 1.

POPULATION OF THE OCEAN

A striking proof of the vastness and variety of the population of the sea is furnished by the results of explorations made by a committee of the zoological department of the British association in that part of the Irish sea surrounding the Isle of Man. Out of 1,000 species of marine animals collected, 224 never before had been found in that region, 88 were previously unknown as inhabitants of British water, and 17 were entirely new to science; indeed, they were animals whose existence had never been suspected.

THE PECULIAR CHARM Market of Gaudaloupe One of the Most Beautiful That the Tourist Can Visit.

The market of Gaudaloupe is one of the most beautiful of its size in the western world. Its huge glass dome is pierced by tall palm trees that form natural pillars supplementing those of iron that support the roof of glass. The fish exhibit is the show of the morning, the "blue silk" and "pink silk" fish taking precedence over all others for real beauty. They are laid out on shining marble counters, next to the baskets of flying fish—great piles of shining silver.

A few years ago it dawned upon the people who were running the market that they might do a larger business if they had a car line of some kind. So they put their heads together and decided to build a car line for general effectiveness goes ahead of many in more ambitious road of rails and automobiles.

Today if your business takes you through the market to the Gaudaloupe long journey of a quarter of a mile—you will find on the way this, the equipment of which consists of one white mule, one driver, one seller of tickets—a woman—one taker of tickets—a mule—and one car that seats ten passengers. The mule is decorated with a blanket of flamboyant feathers that wave over his ears like a gaudy oriflamme.

The driver is provided with a horn, more brassy, more noisy than a dozen ordinary fish horns, which he is supposed to blow a few minutes before the car starts on its journey over the quarter-mile course and at every street corner as he approaches it. Both the seller of tickets and the collector ride on the car, and both assist with the horn and with the mule when called on. The ride is never devoid of interest.

CORN CRIB BANK INSECURE

Fire Transforms 180 $20 Gold Pieces Into a Mass of Yellow Metal.

Chicago.—One hundred and fifty bright and shining $20 gold pieces belonging to Thomas Ballard, owner of a farm at South Western avenue and West 135th street, were quickly converted into an irregular lump of metal a few days ago.

Ballard had a mania for collecting $20 gold pieces. He liked to have them around so well that he got together $5,000 worth of them and stored them in the corner of his corn crib. To keep them from getting lonesome he carelessly checked in a matter of $500 in paper money.

A short time ago he took a load of hay and started for Blue Island. The morning was calm and bright and Ballard dozed peacefully on the top of the load. He was startled from his dreams by the sound of his name being called. Looking around, he beheld a man running frantically after him. "Your barn is on fire!" screamed the man.

Quickly wheeling his team, Ballard

called the hay rack around at right angles and dumped the load by the wayside and raced madly back to his farm.

A pathetic sight met his eyes. The barn had burned. Also a shed and several smaller outbuildings. Fire had just attacked the corn crib. Shouting excitedly for the men who were fighting the fire to direct their efforts to the northeast corner of the crib, Ballard told them that his money was stored there.

It was almost too late. The fire spread with almost incredible rapidity and was soon licking at the corner where lay the golden hoard. The flames were eventually quelled and as soon as the ruins were cool enough the search of the ashes for the treasure began.

Two or three crumpled bills were found; $3,000 in gold was a lumpy mass; $2,000 retained some semblance of $20 gold pieces.

Ballard mournfully surveyed what was left of a once beautiful pile of coin.

POOR MAN'S BRICK IN MEXICO

A crude but valuable art in Mexico is the making of adobe, sun-baked brick. If it were not for this crudely molded slab of sun-cured mud half the people of the Mexican republic would be shelterless. The rich and those of the middle class, who can afford it, build of stone. When the Spaniards came they denuded the forests to the extent that vast tracts were left treeless. Lumber is thus one of the rare commodities of Mexico.

The implements used by a Mexican mud-brick maker are of the most primitive kind. earthen jars to hold the water needed in the mixing, a wooden mold in which the mud squares are shaped, and his own soft palms. Some Mexican builders make only the walls of their homes, of the adobe, and finish with straw, palm fronds or banana stalks. Others, again, form both walls and roof of the adobe. When this is the case the adobe roof is supported by beams. As will be readily supposed, the adobe is of enormous weight, and if it is not well supported it is likely to collapse upon its owner's head.

When covered by a thick coat of cement, another production of Mexican art, the adobe walls stand for years without showing the least sign of crumbling. There are buildings in Mexico today, some of them public buildings, the cement-coated adobe walls of which were constructed fully a century ago.

TINY BUSINESS BUILDING

What is believed to be the smallest business "building" in the world is located at 2 Light street, Baltimore, Md. This building, for it is a building inasmuch as a building permit was required from the city authorities before it could be erected, stands on a triangular shaped lot, has a frontage of 2 feet 7 inches, a depth of 1 foot 5 inches, and is 6 feet tall. The ground upon which it stands is a remnant left when Light street was widened following the great fire of 1904. At that time the city bought all of the lots fronting on this street, as it was then, took what land was necessary for the reconstructed street, and sold the remnants at public auction. The remnant upon which the smallest "building" stands was sold to Joseph P. Jarboe, who, in common with adjacent owners, enjoys the privilege of using a portion of the area way in the rear. Otherwise his "property" would be of little use to him.

ROWING WITH THEIR LEGS

This photograph represents men of the Jule lake in the southern Shan states, which form a part of Burma. These men, who live in dwellings built over the lake, row their long, narrow boats with their legs, keeping up a good speed for a long time.

GROUSE BROKE THE GAME LAW

C. M. Donaldson went to Tillamook one day recently looking for Game Warden Leach, for the purpose of filing a complaint against himself for assisting in the suicide of a grouse. It seems that while Mr. Donaldson and helpers were hauling hay from the field to his barn, they disturbed a flock of grouse, frightening the birds considerably, and one of the birds, crazed by fright, flew at Mr. Donaldson, who was on a load of hay, and struck him in the neck, knocking him down and nearly off the load. The force of the blow broke the bird's neck.

Use Straw for Tea Drinking. London.—Because of the enormous hats which fashion has decreed that women shall wear all society has been forced into a new tea-drinking through a straw. Hats of three-foot diameter have to be balanced carefully, as even the slightest and longest helpings will not hold them on. Therefore vases are worn tied tightly under the chin and the head is held steady at the proper angle so that the hat will not fall in position.

CHARLESTON, CITY OF CHARM

Her House and Gates Fair and Gracious, and Typical of the Beautiful South.

Charleston, S. C.—Every house in Charleston faces seaward. It frequently happens that the streets do not adjust themselves to this disposition of the house-plan—in which case the street line is calmly disregarded and the house is built as they see fit, square with the street, and the compass. The result of this is a curious and most interesting—at times disconcerting, but frequently as pleasing as any of Charleston's architecture and its unimpaired color scheme.

As in the mansion of old Virginia, the general form of the Charleston houses is very simple, and they depend for their beauty upon the fine balance and spacing of doors and windows, the character of the cornice, and above all upon the dignified beauty of the classic porticoes and galleries which adorn one side of each structure.

But Charleston has another and quite unique architectural feature in the arched and ornate walls of moss-grown brick which close in all of the fine residences, and the highly decorative wrought-iron gateways which give access to the private grounds. In a city which was at one time the port of call of all the pirates of the Spanish main—where one day it was found advisable to bury forty of these worthies under the sea-wall of the city; where half-civilized negroes formed always an overwhelming majority of the population, it was the part of common prudence to erect a strong barrier between the streets and the private demesnes of the better-class residents. Out of this necessity grew the infinite number of gates and grillages of twisted iron, which are the chief pride of Charleston today, and whose only rivals are the far-famed gates of Seville. These marvels of wrought and beaten iron were all the work of local smiths. I was told that no two gates of the city were of similar design, and I certainly saw no single example which was not in itself beautiful.—Birge Harrison in Art and Progress.

PASS LIFE AMONG LEPERS

Rev. Charles Kellar Will Devote Talents to Possible Discovery of Cure for Disease.

Cambridge, Mass.—After he completes a post-graduate course at Harvard this fall, Rev. Charles Kellar, a Catholic priest, who was graduated in June from the American Medical college of St. Louis, will go to Honolulu and pass the rest of his life among leprosy patients of the Hawaiian islands. He will share their hardships and expose himself to infection from the disease with the end in view of possibly discovering a cure for leprosy, the goal of scientists for centuries.

Father Kellar is forty-eight years old. He resigned his pastorate at Kahoka, Mo., because a throat trouble made it impossible for him to preach. His voice was restored by an operation in St. Louis, and then the priest entered the St. Louis University of Medicine. After a year Father Kellar changed to the American Medical university.

Father Kellar won the highest class honors when he graduated from the American university last June. He studied nervous diseases six weeks at the Alexian Brothers' hospital and then went to Harvard. He expects to depart for Honolulu November 1.

POPULATION OF THE OCEAN

A striking proof of the vastness and variety of the population of the sea is furnished by the results of explorations made by a committee of the zoological department of the British association in that part of the Irish sea surrounding the Isle of Man. Out of 1,000 species of marine animals collected, 224 never before had been found in that region, 88 were previously unknown as inhabitants of British water, and 17 were entirely new to science; indeed, they were animals whose existence had never been suspected.

Innocent, 23 Years in Cell. Huntington, Ind.—Mrs. John Epps, who served 23 years in the Indiana woman's prison for the murder of her husband, and who was paroled six years ago, has been vindicated. It was learned, by the deathbed confession of Henry Epps, a brother. Epps, before dying, said that he poisoned his brother.

OHIO'S FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

A CONSUMPTIVE WHO DIED IN AN OLD BARN BECAUSE THERE WAS NO OTHER PLACE WHERE HE COULD GO.

Such occurrences are common all over the state, and it is these that give importance to the growing demand upon the part of the people of our state that the proper authorities take steps to provide hospitals where these unfortunates may be taken care of, and thus remove the danger of infecting others with the germ of "The Great White Plague."

BASEBALL UP TO DATE NEWS and NOTES GOSSIP

BOSTON HAS CLEVER PLAYER CATCHES GAME FOR QUARTER

Steve Yerkes, Star Second Baseman of Champion Red Sox, Helped to Win Another Pennant.

Steve Yerkes, second baseman of the Champion Boston Red Sox, is twenty-four years old. He started playing at Mercersburg, Pa. He was signed by Boston in 1908, but farmed to Worcester. He helped that city win a pennant in the New England league. He rejoined the club as a utility player in 1910 and last year played Bradley Kocher of Detroit Tigers is Called From Grandstand to Earn Munificent Sum.

Had the manager of the Easton team of the now defunct Atlantic league refused to give Jack Kocher, now second catcher of the Detroit team, the 25 cents that he paid to witness a game at Easton in 1909 the Tigers would probably be without one of the best young backstops in the game. That was the only condition on which he would catch for Easton when he was picked out of the stand after the only catcher that team had was crippled by a foul.

It is the merest bit of luck that gave Kocher his start in baseball. It happened this way. Kocher lived at White Haven, near Philadelphia, and a short distance from Easton. A big, husky farmer's boy drifted into Easton to visit his cousin, said boy being Kocher, on a day when the Easton team was playing a double-header against Sunbury, another Atlantic league team.

The cousin suggested that they spend the afternoon at the ball game and Kocher, who was something of a catcher in White Haven, agreed to go along. In the seventh inning of the first game Catcher Barret was put out with a bunged finger and the game was about to be called off when the cousin tipped the manager off to the fact that Kocher could catch.

Kocher didn't want to catch a game that he had paid to see, and so informed the manager, making the proposition that he would catch if he received his quarter back. An agreement reached, he put on Barret's uniform and caught eleven innings of star baseball. The following day Lave Cross, the old Athletic and Washington third baseman, came to Easton with his Mount Carmel team. Kocher threw to all the bases with such speed and ease that Cross told Connie Mack and Kocher has had a job ever since.

but one hour and ten minutes were needed to enable Ragon to defeat the westerners. Ragon omits all unnecessary flourishes and keeps right at work all the time he is in the box, never taking a breathing spell, nor allowing his catcher any rest.

Triple Play Unassisted.

First Baseman William Rapps of the Portland Baseball club of the Pacific Coast league made a triple play unassisted in a recent game between Portland and Oakland. Oakland runners were on first and second bases. The batsman hit a low liner toward first and the base runners, thinking the ball could not be fielded, sprinted ahead. Rapps scooped up the ball with one hand before it touched the ground. He touched first base before the runner could get back and then raced to second in time to get the third man.

Joe Wood, Idol of Boston Fans.

Fans may sing the praises of Ed Walsh, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Rube Marquard and other pitchers, but down Boston way New Englanders are taking off their lids to one Joe Wood.

For the edification of anyone who doesn't know full particulars about Joe Wood, take a glance at the standings of the American league. Wood is the man who put Boston on top. He has made a brilliant record as a dispenser of curve balls.

Wood is about the handiest man on Stahl's club. He earns his pay. Success doesn't seem to have turned the head of this quiet and unassuming athlete. He is always ready to help out the good cause. When he isn't actually warming up to pitch he is out playing some position on the team in preliminary practice or warming up one of the extra twirlers.

Wood has seen service in Boston since 1908. He made a hit from the start. His specialty is a perfect drop ball. He developed as a pitcher while attending the University of Kansas. Then he joined the Hutchinson (Kan.) team. That was before he was seventeen years old. He showed great class there and was grabbed up by Kansas City, and from there he went to Boston. Since he has been in Boston he has made good.

Wood said, in answer to a query as to how he mastered the knack of curving a ball: "When I was seven years old I could curve a baseball, and I have never been shown anything about pitching. I suppose baseball is a natural gift, for I have devised and developed every shoot and curve that I use. All through my school days I played ball, and, while often assigned to other positions, I was usually called upon to pitch the important games."

It has often been said that Wood is a trifle too light for a pitcher, but that is not so. He stands 5 feet 11 1/2 inches, and weighs 168 pounds. It is an ideal height and weight for an athlete, especially a pitcher.

In addition to being a master pitcher, Wood is an expert at all-round playing. He fields his position better than almost any other man playing the game, especially when it comes to covering the first bag. Wood's hitting has been an important factor in more than one game which the Red Sox have won.

It is a treat to see Wood go through his preliminary work before a game. He will begin throwing straight with little speed. Then he will work his curves until he has the ball breaking to his satisfaction and finish with speed.

Joe Wood has never been fined or put out of a game by the umpires.

SHAKO TO BE RESTORED

British War Office Revives Historic Old Headgear in the Service.

The war office has at last definitely decided to adopt the shako for the full dress headgear of infantry of the line in place of the heavy and clumsy helmet.

The pattern to be adopted differs slightly from that worn for so many years by our infantry and will be much lower in the crown, approximating more to the kepi of the French infantry.

The new headdress is extremely light to wear and will be of a uniform pattern throughout the service. It will be worn only by the infantry and the royal artillery. The royal engineers, the army service corps, the royal army medical corps and other branches of the service will continue to wear the helmet until the new pattern can be provided for them.

The white helmet is also to be retained for the Indian service, and for the present the khaki helmet for the colonial service is not to be discarded.

Some new shakos are already manufactured, and it is proposed to send a soldier wearing one of them to Buckingham palace in order that it may be examined by the king, who will have the opportunity of comparing it with the present pattern helmet.

Large numbers of the new shako are to be manufactured immediately, and it is hoped that the whole of the infantry at home may be equipped with them not later than the end of next year.

It will not be necessary to apply to parliament for a supplementary estimate for the issue of the shako, since the war office has funds in hand out of which the cost can be met.

No decision has been arrived at yet as to the troops which shall first receive the new headdress, but a beginning will probably be made with those at Aldershot, and not in Ireland, as has been announced.

It is proposed that only the royal regiments shall wear a plume with the shako, though of course the plumes worn by the Scottish regiments that now have this head dress will not be interfered with.—Pall Mall Gazette.

This fish is an exquisite delicacy so delicious and rare that it has been reserved for royal palates from time immemorial. Man Sends Complaint With Exhibit to Health Department of New York.

New York.—Finding a suspicious looking bone in a beef stew, a man sent a communication to the department of health, requesting that an investigation be made into beef stews, Irish stews, and stews of almost every nationality purveyed in this city. The letter from the suspicious individual stated that he had ordered a beef stew in a Bowery restaurant.

"When I bit down on a piece of meat," was the writer's plaint, "I nearly tore a tooth loose on a bone. Included you will find the same. If that bone ever came out of a cow, I'm no judge of animals. I believe it must either be a part of a cat or a dog. You would greatly oblige me by investigating this case."

The bone was about an inch and a half long.

A century ago all the larger towns in eastern Massachusetts were to be reached substantially only over toll roads, or turnpikes, along which one paid to pass. The roads were built and owned by corporations chartered by the commonwealth, and the fares, or tolls, were taken up every few miles at toll gates, which were usually established on the bridges, so that no one could get by without paying.

There were turnpikes to Concord, to Worcester, to Dedham and Quincy, to Lynn and Salem, and to Newburyport. At the first toll gate out of Salem toward Boston, $5,300 was taken in the year 1805, but the day of greatest travel on the road was June 1, 1812, when 120 stages and hundreds of carriages went over the road that their occupants might get a glimpse from hilltops of the fight between the Chesapeake and the Shannon, in which the dying Lawrence uttered his immortal words, "Don't give up the ship."

So Says Ex-Oxford Athlete Who Wants England to Copy the Plan of Sweden.

W. Beach Thomas, an Oxford graduate and former athlete, in reviewing the Olympic games in the Daily Mail says: "One can understand American supremacy. The winners are mostly Englishmen, Scotchmen, or above all, Irishmen, at one remove from the old country. One conspicuous victory was won by an ex-Swede."

"A vast population, recruited by the best red blood, as the Americans boast, from virtue Europe, a population specially devoted to the narrowest form of athletics and possessed almost of a mania for competition, is likely to produce a fine team. It did produce an incomparable team. The inclusion of Indians, Hawaiians and one Anglo-Russian further added to the total of marks."

"The Swedes are a better standard of comparison. Their athletes are a delight to the eyes. They were none of them specialists, but were all gymnasts in a wide sense, as well as athletes in a wide sense. The nation has used the Olympic games as a test of the physical training in which the whole nation has been brought up. By a quiet, methodical and really national movement they have vastly increased the nation's virility. The people at large can drill, row, swim, run, throw and play."

"The question for England is whether we cannot direct our national talent for athletics so that our teams may at least have some esprit de corps, in which the defeated Olympic team was grievously deficient, and so that athletic skill with a chance of representing the nation may become a really healthy ambition among the rich and poor in town and village. Such an ideal is realized already in Sweden, Denmark and Finland, and is being discussed in France and Germany."

The reason for this was that the sweepings contained much lubricating oil. The experimenters made tests of sweepings from which the oil had been extracted and found that both hand and machine sweepings produced as good results as stable manure, while the decomposed sweepings were not far behind.

BOSTON HAS CLEVER PLAYER CATCHES GAME FOR QUARTER

Steve Yerkes, Star Second Baseman of the Champion Red Sox, Helped to Win Another Pennant.

Steve Yerkes, second baseman of the Champion Boston Red Sox, is twenty-four years old. He started playing at Mercerburg, Pa. He was signed by Boston in 1909, but farmed to Worcester. He helped that city win a pennant in the New England league. He rejoined the club as a utility player in 1910 and last year played Attendance Records.

American League attendance records in Boston were broken on August 31 when 22,000 fans saw the Red Sox beat the Mackmen. In other years attendance figures given out were larger than these, but it is said they were padded and that the largest crowd that ever saw a ball game in Boston before numbered 28,000, that being at a Detroit-Boston double header.

It is said Garry Hermann wants Bill Sweeney to manage the Reds.

The baseball scouts have now finished their season and will go into winter quarters.

The Athletics are sore over Harry Davis' treatment in Cleveland and do not hesitate to say so.

The York and Harrisburg teams recently played a full nine-inning game in forty-eight minutes.

Mrs. Britton has come out in denial of the reports that she is thinking of trading Roger Bresnahan.

Pitcher Rube Benton of the Cincinnati Reds has the smallest hands of any baseball pitcher in the majors.

Larry Cheney is going to show some of the other pitchers that he can do a few stunts in making records himself.

Something must be wrong. We haven't seen a story about a ball player playing golf for nearly five days.

Eddie Murphy, now with the Athletics, made one-sixth of the runs registered by Baltimore up to the time he went to Philadelphia.

Harry Davis expects to be with Connie Mack next season in some capacity. Davis will in all probability act as scout or coach for the team.

The draft is luck, pure and simple. In other words, it is a real gamble as to whether a manager gets the player he wants when he puts in his request.

In a recent double-header on the coast Roy Corhan, the former Sox infielder, made eight hits in nine times at bat and accepted thirteen chances without an error.

There are pitchers and pitchers, but for fantastic floats and infinite variety among dry ball pitchers, commend us to Rucker. And part of Nap's rise is due to his drop.

President Comiskey put in a draft for Pitcher Woldring of the St. Joseph team. Callahan found that he had room enough for the youngster and wants to give him a trial.

Bradley Kocher of Detroit Tigers is Called From Grandstand to Earn Munificent Sum.

Had the manager of the Easton team of the now defunct Atlantic league refused to give Jack Kocher, now second catcher of the Detroit team, the 25 cents that he paid to witness a game at Easton in 1909 the Tigers would probably be without one of the best young backstops in the game. That was the only condition on which he would catch for Easton when he was picked out of the stand after the only catcher that team had was crippled by a foul.

It is the merest bit of luck that gave Kocher his start in baseball. It happened this way. Kocher lived at White Haven, near Philadelphia, and a short distance from Easton. A big, husky farmer's boy drifted into Easton to visit his cousin, said boy being Kocher, on a day when the Easton team was playing a double-header against Sunbury, another Atlantic league team.

The cousin suggested that they spend the afternoon at the ball game and Kocher, who was something of a catcher in White Haven, agreed to go along. In the seventh inning of the first game Catcher Barret was put out with a bunged finger and the game was about to be called off when the cousin tipped the manager off to the fact that Kocher could catch.

Kocher didn't want to catch a game that he had paid to see, and so informed the manager, making the proposition that he would catch if he received his quarter back. An agreement reached, he put on Barret's uniform and caught eleven innings of star baseball. The following day Lave Cross, the old Athletic and Washington third baseman, came to Easton with his Mount Carmel team. Kocher threw to all the bases with such speed and ease that Cross told Connie Mack and Kocher has had a job ever since.

but one hour and ten minutes were needed to enable Ragon to defeat the westerners. Ragon omits all unnecessary flourishes and keeps right at work all the time he is in the box, never taking a breathing spell, nor allowing his catcher any rest.

Triple Play Unassisted.

First Baseman William Rapps of the Portland Baseball club of the Pacific Coast league made a triple play unassisted in a recent game between Portland and Oakland. Oakland runners were on first and second bases. The batsman hit a low liner toward first and the base runners, thinking the ball could not be fielded, sprinted ahead. Rapps scooped up the ball with one hand before it touched the ground. He touched first base before the runner could get back and then raced to second in time to get the third man.

BRILLIANT RECORD OF PITCHER JOE WOOD

Wood has seen service in Boston since 1908. He made a hit from the start. His specialty is a perfect drop ball. He developed as a pitcher while attending the University of Kansas. Then he joined the Hutchinson (Kan.) team. That was before he was seventeen years old. He showed great class there and was grabbed up by Kansas City, and from there he went to Boston. Since he has been in Boston he has made good.

Wood said, in answer to a query as

"Rube" Marquard Holds Sox While Giants Hit O'Brien

Special to Herald.

Fenway Park, Boston, October 10.—After yesterday's tie game the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants took the field today at 2 p. m. in the third game of the World's Championship series. Yesterday's game being declared "no contest" the teams, under the rules of the National Commission, were compelled to battle again on the home lot of the Red Sox.

McGraw again, as in the first game, pinned his faith to a left-hander, and Marquard was sent into the box. Stahl sent O'Brien to the firing line. Myers again did the receiving for the Giants and Carrigan for the Red Sox.

Both teams were off in good fettle on the cry of "play ball". Both pitchers started strong and steady. The Giants scored first, one run in the third, by clean hitting of O'Brien's slants.

Marquard held the Sox safe at all stages. They were unable to hit him at all when hits meant runs. New York accorded the "Rube" splendid support in the field and cut off many a hard hit ball.

Questionable Commercial Transaction, However, in No Way Abashed the Old Lady.

Wherever buying and selling go on, there are those who do not scruple to take a little extra profit if it can be done secretly. The deed is not always carried off so boldly as in this amusing adventure related in Mrs. Phillimore's book of travel, "In the Carpathians."

The yellow horse—the Phillimores' journey was made in a peasant's cart drawn by a horse whose "skin was the color of honey when the sun shines on it," and driven by a romantic and elegant Pole, whose name was Milak—the yellow horse was preparing to shake the dust of Jostiska from his heels when an elderly Jewess detached herself from an excited crowd in the market-place and hurried toward the cart.

"My weight!" she demanded in a loud voice.

"What weight?" inquired Mr. Phillimore.

"In the sugar," replied the old lady.

"What sugar?" queried Mr. Phillimore.

Milak came to the rescue. "I bought loaf sugar," he explained.

"The weight is in the sugar. I made a mistake," volunteered the aggressive lady with much wrath and no embarrassment. "Am I to wait all day?" she continued, impatient at the stupidity of these foreigners.

Guilelessly, Milak produced the bag of sugar. A more knowing villager offered a bowl, into which the old lady hastily dumped the sugar, disclosing in the bottom a brass weight of three or four ounces.

"That's it," she said, unblushingly. "I forgot to take it out," and hastily restoring the sugar to her customers, she turned and marched back to the market-place.—Youth's Companion.

Strike in Mexico.

Mexico City.—To failure of the mill owners to put into effect new wage schedules is attributed strikes just precipitated in the textile mills in the States of Puebla and Tlaxcala. Employees of four factories in the Federal District also have gone on strike.

WITH DEATH CLOSE AT HAND

Merry Throng of Careless Sailors Had Luncheon Party That Just Missed Being Tragedy.

Some years ago while a French man-of-war was lying at anchor in Temple bay a number of the younger officers conceived the idea of amusing themselves with an iceberg a mile or so distant in the straits. They decided to have a luncheon party at the very top of it.

It was a bright summer morning and the jolly boat with a flag went off to the berg. By 12 o'clock the colors were flying from the top of the big chunk of ice, and the midshipmen were reveling thereon. For two hours or more they hacked and clambered over it. They frolicked and they feasted, laughing at the idea of danger at this solid ice. When, like thoughtless children, the young men played themselves weary, they descended to their cockle-shell of a boat and rowed away.

As if time and distance had been measured for the very purpose of permitting the young men to view the scene in safety, the great berg lay silent until the boat was a certain distance off. Then, as if its heart had been volcanic fire, it burst with awful thunder and filled the surrounding water with its ruins. Awed and subdued by the scene of destruction, and thrilled at their narrow escape from death, the picnickers returned to their ship. It was their first and last day of amusement with an iceberg.

BEST IVORY MADE FROM MILK

Synthetic Chemists Seem to Have Discovered How to Improve on Natural Product.

One of the latest discoveries of the synthetic chemists is how to make ivory out of nothing more wonderful than cow's milk—and very good ivory at that, according to all accounts. The original idea was to use the new "ivory" for piano and organ keys because it preserves its original color indefinitely, whereas the genuine article turns yellow after a time.

But it has been found that the new product is not only an efficient substitute for ivory, but can easily be prepared so as to take the place of amber, horn, coral, celluloid and such like products, and it is claimed, can hardly be distinguished from them.

It is in its position as a substitute for ivory that the new material has caused most surprise, however, because it has the appearance of being another instance of improving upon nature. The new ivory takes a very high and lasting polish, and probably will not lack a commercial field for itself, as natural ivory continues to grow scarcer and dearer year by year.

Trust Father.

"Well, what do you think of things?" inquired father as the "bus drove away from the station.

"This scenery ain't what I expected," complained mother.

"I don't believe that mountain is half as high as the booklet claimed," declared sister.

"That sunset ain't up to the standard," was brother's comment.

"Go slow, folks," counseled father.

"If the meals and the beds come up to the booklet, we won't kick."

"Rube" Marquard Holds Sox While Giants Hit O'Brien

Special to Herald.
Penway Park, Boston, October 10.—After yesterday's tie game the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants took the field today at 2 p. m. in the third game of the World's Championship series. Yesterday's game being declared "no contest" the teams, under the rules of the National Commission, were compelled to battle again on the home lot of the Red Sox.
McGraw again, as in the first game, pinned his faith to a left-bander, and Marquard was sent into the box. Stahl sent O'Brien to the firing line. Myers again did the receiving for the Giants and Carrigan for the Red Sox.
Both teams were off in good fettle on the cry of "play ball". Both pitchers started strong and steady. The Giants scored first, one run in the third, by clean hitting of O'Brien's slants.
Marquard held the Sox safe at all stages. They were unable to hit him at all when hits meant runs. New York accorded the "Rube" splendid support in the field and cut off many a hard hit ball.
